Extensive Preparations Are Under Way for Nineteen-Day Campaign

28 PRECINCTS FORMED

Fifteen Chairmen Already Appointed to Secure 2000 Members

Extensive preparations are being made for the great Red Cross drive, which will start in Glendale on November 11 and which will continue until November 30, by the committee of which Mrs. John Robert White is chairman. During the last few days the committee has been engaged in securing chairmen for the various precincts into which the city has been divided for this work. There will be 28 precincts in Glendale and already 15 precinct chairmen have been selected.

It is the aim of the committee to make this the most complete Red Cross drive ever held in Glendale. A 2000 membership allotment has been made to Glendale, and the workers are expecting to do far better than this. The memberships will be issued in denominations of $1, $2, $5 and $10, and it is expected that quite a number of the higher priced memberships will be sold. Every home and business house of the city will be visited and everyone in Glendale will be given an opportunity to become a member.

Churches—Mrs. E. W. W. Hayward; advertising, Mrs. Allan Fairchild; women's organization, Mrs. Lillian Dow; P. E. O., Mrs. Archie Parker; Elks, Masons, Odd Fellows, Knights of Columbus and Exchange club, W. B. Kelly.

POSTMASTER TO SORT CHRISTMAS MAIL AT HIGH

To Be Afforded Quarters from Dec. 18 to 31 to Handle Rush

Believing that a public institution like Glendale High should meet as far as possible all calls for service to the community, the trustees after careful consideration have voted to grant the request of Postmaster D. Ripley Jackson to grant him quarters in which mail can be sorted and stored during the Christmas rush. Knowing what it was last year, the postmaster has felt the necessity of taking time by the forelock and getting thoroughly organized.

The trustees found Mr. Jackson's request for quarters from the 18th to the 31st of December because of coming at the holiday season, would trespass on only two of the regular school days, and therefore decided to grant it.

GLENDALE GIRLS WIN AT VOLLEY

Two games of volley ball were played Thursday by girls of the Wilson Avenue Intermediate and the Glendale Avenue Intermediate with teams from Eagle Rock, the Glendale teams winning both games by large scores. The first teams of Wilson and Eagle Rock were matched and the first team of Glendale Avenue had supposed they were to play a first team. When they learned it was the second team they had defeated, considerable dissatisfaction was expressed. As it was played under the schedule that has been adopted, a formal protest may be registered as it has been understood that games should be played by teams of equal rank.

TEXAS MAN HEADS AMERICAN LEGION

NEW ORLEANS, Oct. 20.—Alvin M. Owsley of Texas, today was elected commander of the American Legion at the annual convention.

SPOOKY MOTIF AT ROTARY CLUB

Clever Decorations Mark Meeting of the Organization

Black cats, bats, spooky witches and other weird Hallowe'en signs predominated yesterday at the noon-day meeting of the Glendale Rotary club. They were found in the clever table decorations furnished by Charl Kirkman. At each place was a Hallowe'en favor and the centerpiece was made of black and orange as a background with black cats, bats and witches perched on fences. They added much to the jollity of the affair.

There were 33 present yesterday, with only two members absent and these will probably visit another Rotary club which, if they do, will bring the attendance up to 100 per cent. A communication was read from Ed Hewitt regarding Laundry Week, October 24 to 27. At this time the Glendale laundries will hold open house.

It was announced that thus far $198.65 was brought in from the field day to be turned over to the boy scouts.

Principal Moyse of the high school gave a very comprehensive talk on the bond election today. A standing vote was taken whereby everyone pledged to vote and work for the bonds.

France Henry led the singing which was unusually good. Roy Kent extended an invitation to the whole club and their wives to be present at his home Friday night.

Mr. and Mrs. Dan Kelty have also invited the club to be present at a luncheon at their home next Thursday. They live on Highland avenue, just north of Kenneth road.

It was announced that beginning with November, Group 3 will be the reception committee, Group 4 will have charge of the entertainment and program for November 4.

William Buckner, memory expert was the special entertainer at the luncheon and he gave a wonderful exhibition of memory. He stated that memory is the ability to recall by means of association and that most people do not try to remember names.

SHRINE CLUB WILL MARK HALLOWE'EN WITH STUNTS

George Carr's Committee to Stage Different Kind of Party

On Wednesday, October 25, 1922, the Shrine club of Glendale will give a Hallowe'en party in the chamber of commerce auditorium at Brand and Harvard streets.

All members and their families are cordially invited to attend.

There will be an entertainment consisting of many weird stunts during the first part of the evening; after which there will be dancing which we are sure everyone will enjoy.

The music for the entertainment and dancing will be furnished by Kelly's Shrine club orchestra.

This party, like all past ones, will be entirely different from any others; there will be several feature dances during the evening arranged and staged under the direction of A. M. Kelly. At our last dance in September "Three O'clock in the Morning" was featured and made a great hit with all.

The chairman of the committee is George Carr and he sure has a lot of funny stunts that we know will entertain you.

ANNANDALE TO HAVE A BANK

Eagle Rock isn't the only city that is to have a new bank. A charter was granted in Annandale last week for the Annandale State bank, to be erected at the corner of La Prada park and Annandale boulevard.

Dr. Elmer H. Johnson, who lives at 1474 La Prada park, is president of the bank, which is capitalized at $30,000. Stockholders and directors are all residents of Annandale.

RING SALESMAN LICENSED

L. A. Donaphey of 922 Potter Park, Los Angeles, was arrested in Glendale Thursday for selling rings on the street without a license. When taken to the city hall he secured the required license and continued happy on his way.

MOTORMETER STOLEN

Mrs. R. T. Ritz of 623 North Central avenue, reported to the Glendale police this morning that a motormeter was stolen from her Cadillac car, as it was standing in front of the First Methodist church last night. No trace of the missing article has been found.

THE HOHENZOLLERNS

acquired Brandenburg by purchase early in the fifteenth century. This territory began with a strip extending about 100 miles to the east and to the west of the little village of Berlin. Later by successive additions it was enlarged to two-thirds of Germany.

SMALL VOTE OPENS FIGHT FOR NEW HI

Only 310 Ballots Cast in Glendale by 11 o'Clock

SITES ARE CONFUSED

Apparently Contest Is About Even for and Against Bonds

As the noon hour approached the voters besieged the polls in an effort to cast their ballot. Especially was this true at the high school. The afternoon is expected to bring increased activity in the voting. At noon the votes cast at the various precincts stood as follows: High school, 301; Central avenue school, 90; Cerritos avenue school, 44.

Although the fight on the high school bonds promises to be close and hotly contested until the closing of the polls at 6 o'clock tonight, reports received at the various polling places this morning indicate that the votes will carry. Glendale is, apparently, voting in favor of the bonds. There is every indication that Eagle Rock City will assist in carrying the day for the bonds, reports received at a late hour being to the effect that the people of that city are generally in favor of the proposition. There is considerable uncertainty, however, as to which site on the west side of the city will be selected, as the voters in Eagle Rock seem to be a little uncertain as to the location and value of the different sites offered. The people in the La Crescenta, La Canada, Tujunga, Montrose districts are reported to be favoring the bonds, although no authentic figures could be received from those sections.

Three hundred and ten votes were cast up to 11 o'clock in Glendale. There were several people waiting at each of the polling places for the opening this morning, and things started off with a rush, but since that time balloting has been extremely slow, considering the importance of the issue. At 11 o'clock the vote at the various schools was as follows: High school, 216; Central avenue, 65; Cerritos, 29.

Generally speaking the women seem to be a little more active than the men in the number of ballots cast. At the high school and the Cerritos school the voting is about even, but at the Central avenue school the women are quite a distance in the lead.

It is the expectation of those at the polls that the beginning of the afternoon will bring a flood of voters to the polls, and that as the afternoon progresses and the closing hour approaches the voting will be heavier.

BOND ISSUE IS EXPLAINED TO STUDENTS

Two Assemblies Called for Instruction in School Needs

Two assemblies were called at the High School Thursday afternoon in order that Mr. Ferguson might explain to the students about the bond election, which is to be held today.

In Mr. Ferguson's talk, he stated in part that, "If this bond election is not carried through, in two years from now you students will not be able to have any assemblies or gymnasium, for in two years from now there will be over 2900 students attending High School. Where will we put them if the bonds are not voted?"

The rest of the time was turned over to the football rally, Mr. Hayhurst, the football coach, introducing all the players on the heavyweight team, which will play Covina today over at Covina.

David Ruskin, the high school yell-leader, led the school in some yells, which closed the assembly.

REFERENDUM IS DISCUSSED AT CREDIT MEET

At the last meeting of the Credit Men's association a speaker was heard on the Referendum No. 24, known as the "Lawyer's Bill," to be voted upon in November. He spoke from the viewpoint of the attorney. At the next meeting Judge William Rhoades Hervey, executive vice president of the Pacific Southwest Trust & Savings bank of Los Angeles, will address the association from the viewpoint of the banks and trust companies. It will be an interesting comparison and Secretary Pilling hopes will draw the full membership, whether for or against the measure.

Northwest High School Sites, Acreage, Price and Total Cost

These are the sites, acreage and prices voted upon today for a future high school on the northwest side. They are arranged alphabetically:

Edwards site, 19 acres, $3000 per acre.....$57,000
Gardner tract, 20 acres, $4500 per acre.....$90,000
Hahn tract, 25 acres, $2000 per acre.....$50,000
Pelanconi tract, 20 acres, $3000 per acre.....$60,000

Voters favoring the bonds should indicate the site they prefer. That receiving the highest vote will be bought by the trustees out of the bond issue.

GO TO THE POLLS—RIGHT NOW

It is not too late to vote for the High School bonds and a large high school on the Verdugo road site.

The light vote of the early morning gives an ample opportunity for those who wish the high school to make their votes count strong and big.

The opposition to the plant is voting. It voted early and it will vote its friends all day.

Those who favor the measure, who want the larger school on the site already owned, should vote NOW.

The polls will be open until 6 o'clock. Those in the polling place at that hour will be allowed to ballot.

VOTE.

The Glendale Daily Press has a few cars available for those who are too far away to go to the polls. Call up if you wish to vote. A car will be sent.

THERE ARE 735 MORE CHILDREN IN CITY SCHOOLS THAN IN 1921

Complete figures in regard to enrollment in the Glendale city schools are now available at the office of the Board of Education and the check which has been made by Superintendent White reveals the astonishing fact that the totals last Friday at the close of the first month's work are an even 400 more than the first day's totals, and are larger by 735 than last year at this time. This huge increase is more than the equivalent of two average sized schools of 8 rooms each.

There is no escape from the obvious requirement for greatly increased school accommodations in all sections of the city during the coming year.

BARNSTORMING TO END IN POST SEASON

Major League Owners to Pass Legislation Eliminating Practice

By HENRY L. FARRELL

NEW YORK, Oct. 20.—Sentiment among the major league club owners against post-season barnstorming may result in positive legislation against this practice at the winter meetings.

The magnates have always taken the stand that the game and the players themselves derived no credit from unsupervised playing after the close of the season and some stories coming to their ears this fall support their contention.

Reports of major leaguers playing against ineligibles have come to the attention of Commissioner Landis and it is understood that he is making an investigation.

Several teams with prominent major leaguers have been beaten in the last week by colored semi-pro teams and the showing made by the big league stars was said not to be first class.

Under the stress of public sympathy aroused for Babe Ruth and Bob Meusel last spring, the bars against barnstorming by members of pennant winning teams were lowered to the extent of giving them a chance to pick up some easy money with the permission of their club owners and the commissioner.

Players on other than world's series teams were also allowed the same privilege.

The club owners figure that the result has been unsatisfactory and that the only thing to do to prevent discredit on the game is to stop all kinds of barnstorming in the future.

ELKS TO OPEN SEASON WITH DANCE

Herd Called to Attend Great Fall Rally of the Big Home

The opening dance of the season to be given by the Elks' band will be held at the Elks' club house tonight. For this event elaborate preparations are being made, and it is expected that this will be one of the most enjoyable events of the kind ever given by the Glendale Elks' lodge.

The rooms of the club are being very prettily decorated for this event, which is open only to members of the Elks' lodge and their friends. Dancing will start promptly at 9 o'clock. The festivities of the evening will be under the direction of the entertainment committee consisting of Joe Bellue, Harry Whaley, Bill Bode and Gerald Dockery.

THE WEATHER

Southern California: Tonight and Saturday fair, except foggy in morning near coast.

Los Angeles and vicinity: Fair tonight and Saturday with moderate temperature. Probably foggy or cloudy in morning.

ANNEXATION IS SOUGHT WITH LOS ANGELES

Annandale and Rockdale Seeking to Join Big City

Both Annandale and Rockdale are taking steps to annex to Los Angeles, as soon as such action can be legal. It was intended by the Annandale board of directors to start annexation proceedings at once, but the Los Angeles city council advised a delay until the November 7th election is over.

This delay was necessitated by a legal catch that might place Annandale in the same predicament that Sawtelle finds itself, G. A. Frick, a member of the Annandale board of directors, stated this morning. Sawtelle, while annexation was virtually accomplished, is not legally a part of Los Angeles at the present time.

It was learned through the Rockdale improvement association, Mr. Frick stated, that Rockdale will also begin action for annexation, as soon as it can be done legally. This word was given Mr. Frick, who is the vice-president of the Annandale improvement association.

Immediately following the election on November 7, petitions will be circulated in both Annandale and Rockdale for annexation. While petitions for annexation have already been circulating in Engle Rock for some time, it is understood that the calling of an election will be delayed until some time after the November election.

$10,000 GATE FOR OXY COLLEGE ENTRANCE

William Orr of Alhambra Makes Unique Gift to Occidental College

A beautiful new gateway is to be erected at the entrance to Occidental college campus at the Clementina entrance, through a gift of $10,000, given by Mr. William Orr of Alhambra, for financing it.

The gateway will provide for two sidewalk entrances and two ways for automobiles, with a parking down the center. Cement posts will be erected, with iron gates between them.

The fund is also to provide a parking between Swan Hall and Johnson Hall, which will add materially to the appearance of the grounds.

Another gift of $1000 was made to the college by Trustee Hunchburger, to be given into the general fund.

TO DISCUSS MASONRY

Next Tuesday evening Unity Lodge, of which Dwight Stephenson is Master, will have as a speaker at its regular meeting, Raymold Blight of Los Angeles, who is considered one of the finest speakers of the city besides having a great professional reputation as a certified accountant. His theme will be: "Masonry on the Firing Line."

CONTRACT POSTOFFICE IS OFFERED

Glendale Advancement Association Hears From Postmaster Jackson

THERE IS DELAY IN LINE

Signboard Committee Reports Progress at City Hall

At the meeting of the Glendale Advancement Association held at the Broadway Inn Thursday noon, interest centered in the report on the branch post office proposition made by Postmaster D. Ripley Jackson, who was present and was introduced by Charles Stanley, chairman of the post office committee.

In brief he stated that because the proposed location is but 6-10 of a mile from the main office, with a prospect that the business it would handle would not be commensurate with the expense of maintenance, the postoffice department at Washington is unwilling to consider the establishment of a classified station which would require the services of a superintendent at a salary of perhaps $2100, a clerk at $1400, and perhaps a janitor at $700 to $800 a year. It would however, consider a contract office under a reasonable proposition, and this, Captain Jackson contended, would provide just as good service and a place to register packages and buy money orders.

He stated that the contract blanks are in his hands and he would like to have the business men of the locality see what they can do to secure quarters for such an office with reasonable compensation for service, as he is anxious to have it established before the holiday rush begins.

The postmaster's report was plainly a disappointment. Mr. Ingledue said he could think of no room in the locality suitable for such an office and the matter was finally passed up to a committee appointed by Mr. Ingledue which met following the luncheon and which was composed of Dr. Stuart, Mr. Fisher, Mr. Hayselden, Mrs. Tight and Mr. Stanley.

Mr. Hayselden as chairman of the committee to secure the electrifying of Glendale avenue reported a few delays in the raising of the money but that the project was certain to go through.

A similar report was made by Mrs. Mabel Tight, chairman of the hotel committee, who said that Mr. Whitney had gone east supposing that the second mortgage bonds had been placed and that the escrow would be immediately closed, but on his return had found the proposition upset. Since then three opportunities to place the bonds had presented themselves with one of which he would close today. With this accomplished he declared the actual work of construction could soon begin as he and his company would take care of any liens against the property. The hotel committee arranged to hold a meeting the same afternoon at 4 o'clock.

Several guests were introduced, one being John W. Usilton, greeted with applause when Charles Stanley announced him as a new member.

Dr. C. M. Taylor was introduced by Mrs. Brewer, and G. H. Goodale of Anaheim by Dr. Russell who persuaded him to express his opinion of Glendale. He said he had lived in California for fourteen years, all of that time in Anaheim; that he had had occasion to drive through Glendale frequently and the more he saw of it the better he liked it; that he had made some investments here, was figuring on making more, and hoped some day to be a resident here.

Mr. Kinch reported for the committee appointed to interview the city in regard to the enforcement of the ordinance against sign boards, stating that nothing as yet had been done except to secure from the city government an assurance that it would not favorably consider applications for the erection of such boards. The committee was instructed to continue its effort to enforce the ordinance against signs already in existence.

De Palma Released on $1,000 Bond

MADERA, Calif., Oct. 20.—Ralph De Palma, famed auto racer, was at liberty today under $1000 bond as a result of his plea of guilty to a charge of speeding early in the week.

An additional stay of execution until December 1 was granted him late yesterday in order that he might finish a contract for driving a racing car which expires Thanksgiving day. On December 1 he will be expected to surrender himself to serve ten days in the county jail here.

PIONEER CANNER DIES

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 20.—Mark Fontana, pioneer fruit canner, died here late yesterday, aged 73 years.

ELOENE TRUITT IS ASSEMBLY'S NEW SECRETARY

Exciting Election Produces Total Vote of 777 Students

One of the most exciting elections ever held in Glendale high was staged Thursday and resulted in the election of Eloene Truitt as secretary of assemblies in the cabinet of the student body. Her total vote was 268 against 198 polled by Floyd Kinnan, Heacock receiving 100 votes, Johns 147, and Chase 64. The total vote was 777, and showed that school electors do not do their duty as voters to any greater extent than adult electors in municipal affairs, for the total student vote is 1500.

The new secretary is one of the popular girls of the school and prominent in all its activities. She is a senior and experienced in school affairs and should prove a most efficient official.

STOFFT IS FORCED OUT OF GAME BY BRUISE

Star Halfback of First Team Is Benched Temporarily

A severe blow was handed Coach Hayhurst yesterday when it was announced that Fred Stofft, star halfback and a veteran player at Glendale high would be forced to stay on the bench in today's game at Covina because of a severely bruised hip. Stofft bruised the hip while playing in the Santa Barbara game two weeks ago and has not been able to play since. However, Coach Hayhurst expects to bring back a victorious team. The game today will be the first Central league contest this season for the heavy weight squad. The lightweight aggregation sent the Covina midgets home with heads down last week when they defeated them 37 to 0.

GERMAN MARKS MEAN NOTHING

BERLIN (by mail)—Once upon a time—just before the war—one could buy a good milk cow in Germany for 400 marks. Today one is lucky if one can buy a couple of pounds of butter for the same amount. And everything else has risen in price in proportion. No matter whether produced in Germany or in foreign lands the prices mount just the same every time there is a slight fall in the value of the mark reckoned on a dollar basis. By the time this is printed they will probably have doubled. In the last two days the price of margarine has been artificially raised from 120 and 140 marks per pound to 240 and 280—for no other reason than that the dollar has risen rapidly in the last few weeks.

Margarine, practically a home product, with some Dutch importations, now costs as much or more than butter, and the German people—especially the "restless" press, are beginning to wonder why.

Everyone who has something to sell or a service to give has followed the course of the dollar faithfully, boosting his price when the dollar was strong—and keeping it boosted when the dollar tumbled.

An artificial high level of prices has therefore resulted which in most cases has no logical basis for existing. The prices double and treble over the course of a few weeks and wages hardly have a chance to catch up. Hence, the German worker and white-collar desk fellows with small pay feel the pinch which their own merchants are creating.

The government is greatly concerned with the situation. Means to check the rise in prices are being proposed. The government proposes to regulate the use of grains and sugar in the making of booze and to keep a tight watch on the night life. Efforts will be made to see that all taxes are paid and paid promptly.

A curtailment of luxuries is being attempted by increased taxes thereon. Food rationing will no doubt be resorted to before winter comes. The factory councils are demanding that there be less waste in business. A compromise between the old compulsory economy program will be invoked. Deliveries of goods from the farm lands to the cities will be expedited.

A genuine alarm exists in Germany over the coming of winter. With workmen forced to pay 25,000 marks for the winter's supply of coal—more than a quarter of his present yearly wages—the situation along that line especially looks gloomy.

BONAR LAW FORMS HIS MINISTRY

Lloyd George Starts Organizing New Party of Liberals Under His Leadership

GENERAL ELECTION DUE

New Premier Is First Canadian to Rule Britain

LONDON, Oct. 20. — Andrew Bonar Law started to choose his ministers today as Lloyd George considered formation of a new party which would combine all liberals under his leadership.

Lloyd George will announce his future plans at a speech at Leeds tomorrow, it was believed.

Bonar Law, who accepted conditionally the invitation of King George to form a ministry, consulted leaders of the unionist party, whose bolt from the coalition government yesterday caused the downfall of Lloyd George, who was at the head of the government for six years.

The Canadian-born business man who may become the head of the next government is to give a definite acceptance to his majesty, if he is chosen leader of the unionist party. Although this is taken as a foregone conclusion, it will not be known definitely until the parliamentary unionists meet Saturday or Sunday.

Pending formation of a new government, the coalition ministry remains in control.

In case Bonar Law is successful in forming a government, it is almost assured that there will be a general election.

January or February were variously mentioned as the months in which the general election may be held, but many were of the opinion that it would be called at a much sooner date.

Three factors will be taken into consideration in selecting the time for a general election. These are:

1—The sooner the election is held the less opportunity Lloyd George will have to form a strong center party, which would include not only his own followers in the liberal party, but those of various shades of liberal opinion who are now identified with other parties.

2—In case the election is deferred, the feeling of bitterness on the part of Austen Chamberlain and other Georgian members of the unionist party may be overcome, leading them to give wholehearted support to their party.

3—The Irish constitution must be ratified by the parliament December 6. Hence, if serious opposition to the ratification discloses itself in the country, it is likely the new government of Bonar Law will keep the present parliament in power until after that date to assure ratification.

The whole country today awaited the speech of Lloyd George, which he is scheduled to make tomorrow at Leeds. On this occasion he is to make known his plans.

Prediction as to his probable course are various. Some say they believe that he may agree to support the government of Bonar Law until the Irish constitution is ratified and the crisis passed. He may be led to pursue this course, it was said, because it was due to his efforts that comparative peace was brought to Ireland and the Free State government established.

However, many expect him to openly declare war on the proposed tory government of Bonar Law and to offer the most stubborn resistance and opposition that any British government has experienced in a century.

It was authoritatively stated that Lord Denby and Lord Curzon have both intimated their willingness to serve in the cabinet of Bonar Law. This was not entirely unexpected, because they were known to have had anti-Georgian leanings for some time.

"No action of mine will compromise the Anglo-Irish treaty," Lloyd George said in a wire to William Cosgrave, head of the provisional Irish Free State government today. Lloyd George, who announced his resignation as prime minsiter in the message, stated he trusts the treaty will be ratified by parliament on December 5.

In his answer, the Irish leader said he was confident that the treaty would be ratified.

MISS TUPPER BEGINS WORK

Miss Helen Tupper, the recently appointed school nurse, will begin her work Monday morning after having had a conference with City Health Officer Kaemmerling and with the city nurse connected with the health department of the city. Miss Tupper's headquarters will probably be in Wilson Avenue Intermediate.

Sunday Ball Game At Glendale-Verdugo

A ball game between the Burbank team and the Rinshaw, Jones and Sutton aggregation is scheduled for Glendale-Verdugo park, beginning at 2:30 Sunday afternoon.

The Rinshaw, Jones and Sutton team is a good one from Los Angeles. Burbank has a real team now, able to put up a good defense.

PAST COMMANDER IS SURPRISED BY MEMBERS

Percy Priaulx, past commander of Glendale Commandery, No. 53, and Mrs. Priaulx were delightfully surprised Thursday evening by members of the commandery and their wives. They had been invited to be guests of Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Worley at dinner at the City club in celebration of Mr. Priaulx's birthday, but upon arriving found a real party which gathered around a table beautifully decorated with amber colored dahlias, large yellow chrysanthemums, with smaller varieties interspersed. At the plate of each lady was a corsage boquet of Cecil Brunner roses, and for each gentleman a red rose for a boutonnaire.

It was a jolly dinner of enough courses to constitute a banquet, and at its close Mattison B. Jones voiced the sentiments of the company in one of his characteristic humorous speeches in which he thanked Mr. and Mrs. Priaulx for entertaining them with such an expensive dinner, reading a bill of costs including theater tickets which totaled about $100. He then paid a tribute to the fine qualities of the special guest of honor.

Following the dinner the party adjourned to the Orpheum, where the rest of the evening was spent very pleasantly. The guest list included Commander George U. Mcyse, Recorder Charles C. Rittenhouse, Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Worley, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Peckham, Mr. and Mrs. Mattison B. Jones, Dr. and Mrs. R. V. Hogue, Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Campbell, Mr. and Mrs. Will Reynolds, Mr. and Mrs. William McMillan and the honorees, Mr. and Mrs. Percy Priaulx.

Rodolph Valentino's latest picture, direct from the Paramount studios will be previewed tonight by Ralph Allan at the T. D. & L. theater at 8:30 p. m. sharp. This attraction is one of Valentino's finest pictures, most lavish in production with a wonderful supporting cast of players. It is one of the biggest feature productions turned out by Paramount Pictures this year and as a special offering in addition to the regular show of "Pink Gods," also a Paramount picture, with James Kirkwood, Bebe Daniels and Anna Q. Nilsson is a tremendous double show that could not be improved upon. Of course, regular prices prevail and Glendalians are being given a most wonderful show for the money.

In the furtherance of the policies of the Turner, Dahnken and Langley company that the best and always the biggest of everything in the theater business be presented to the patrons of its theaters. Ralph Allan loses no opportunity to carry them forward and live up to the high standard set by the company. As a consequence the announcement that Valentino's latest picture will be previewed at the T. D. & L. is just another of many instances and occasions in T. D. & L. history for the entertainment and amusement of its thousands of friends and patrons. It is going to be "some show," and no one in Glendale can afford to miss it. But you'll have to go early—remember.

A LITTLE GIRL'S EYES ARE LOST

Somewhere between here and Pasadena, is a pair of eyes, astray or stolen—the eyes of a little girl just 11 years old, who lives in Pasadena.

Maybe you would not recognice them, those eyes—for the little girl is blind. Her eyes are in a bull dog, lost strayed or stolen. The dog guarded her, and guided her every day.

The Pasadena police have searched all Pasadena for the dog, while the little girl sits at home waiting. The dog bears a license tag No. 1000. If you see him will you help return him to his little mistress by calling the Glendale Daily Press, or the Pasadena police department?

Senior Warden to Introduce Rev. Kemp to Congregation

About 200 people enjoyed the dinner and entertainment given Thursday night by the ladies of St. Mark's Guild in the guild hall of the church on Harvard and Louise streets.

The delicious dinner which consisted of roast pork, mashed potatoes, green peas, salad, coffee and pumpkin pie, was served at 6:30 and was followed by a delightful musical program.

Mrs. Joseph Kitt played two piano numbers, each displaying her wonderful talent. She was followed by two vocal solos by Dudley Berney, the first entitled "Tommy Lad." He was accompanied by Mrs. Joseph Kitt.

Mrs. Otto Nelson then gave two beautiful whistling solos, "Silver Threads Among the Gold" and as an encore, "The Mocking Bird," playing her own accompaniment. Miss Edith Wagner also sang a charming number, accompanied by Mrs. Kitt at the piano.

Miss Isabel Yates sang "Nymphs and Fawns" by Benberg, in her usual pleasing manner. She was accompanied by her mother, Mrs. T. R. Yates.

At the close of this program, J. H. Hamilton, Senior Warden of the parish, gave a short talk, telling of some of the experiences they had had in securing a new rector. He stated that Philip K. Kemp of San Antonio, Texas, had been secured and would preach the first Sunday in November. The entire parish is looking forward to a busy year with Mr. Kemp as rector and they are making elaborate plans for the year's work.

It was announced that a reception for Mr. Kemp will be given Saturday afternoon, November 4, from 3 to 6 at the home of J. H. Hamilton and his mother, Mrs. Charles Hamilton on Canada Boulevard. It is hoped that every parish member will be present to greet the new rector at this time.

bership drive, which will be continued another week. A party will be given to the room that secures the largest number of mothers and a treat will go to the room having the second largest number.

Mrs. Rosenberg called special attention to the Red Cross drive which will take place in November and urged the co-operation of each member.

She also announced the first district conference which will be held October 26 in the auditorium of the new high school in South Pasadena. Everyone is cordially invited.

Mrs. Packard reported for the playground committee and they decided that they should go ahead and purchase teeter-totters for the children.

The meeting was closed with two beautiful vocal solos by Miss Donna Wilson, who was accompanied by her sister, Miss Wilson. The program was followed by a social hour and refreshments served in the court.

CHENOWETHS ENTERTAIN MIZPAH CLASS MEMBERS

The Mizpah class of the First Baptist Sunday School had one of their good family dinner parties last night at the home of Captain and Mrs. C. F. Chenoweth, 328 West Lexington drive.

The home was beautifully decorated in the Hallowe'en colors, the flowers being chrysanthemums. Games and music were enjoyed. Harold Trefz sang two vocal solos, accompanied by Mrs. Lammers. Mrs. Zella Robinson is president of the class and Rev. Gasser the newly elected teacher. There were 22 guests.

Destiny, Its Ground and Its Laws.

Destiny is pre-determined, or pre-purposed, because nothing exists without a definite purpose. Purpose always goes back to will, and will to spirit. There are, in the last analysis, only two substances with which we have to deal. The first substance is spirit. The central, ultimate and all pervasive. Fact and universal law is purpose. No spirit does, or tries to do anything without a purpose. Purpose is always the first fact and the first law of spirit action, and of all spiritual activities. All facts, and laws have a purpose, and come from the power and intention of some spirit. The purpose always goes with and in the fact and law.

The purpose, the fact and the law are always right or wrong, and in accord with the intention of the spirit. The purpose, the fact, and the law, are ever good or evil, just as the choice of the spirit is good or evil. These are the ground of destiny. We make our own character good or evil, just as we choose right or wrong.

There is an eternal law of fitness. By this we make ourselves over, on to the line we choose and purpose. That goes with us, wherever we go, to heaven or hell, or elsewhere. Everyone is responsible for his character and destiny, just as he is for his choice and purpose. He, and he only, fixes his own character for right or wrong, for hell or heaven, just as he chooses. No other is or can be responsible.

What are you choosing—truth or falsehood? Right or wrong? Good or bad? Heaven or hell? You take what you will, and you cannot escape the consequences.

First, the law of purpose. The central law of spirit action, and spirit activities. Second, the law of sin. The love of evil, and the transgression of right. Third, the law of grace. This is bound to triumph. Pardon of sin and death of carnality. Fourth, the law of fitness. By this we make ourselves over to the line of what we choose and do. That fixes at once our character and our destiny on that line. This is the basis of our responsibility. It makes for each his hell or heaven. This is the constant result of our choice, our action, and our living, with no escape.

Rev. A. B. Smart.

That the United Brotherhood of the churches of Glendale should take care as to the speaker they select, or at least the subject upon which he speaks, was evidenced by the attitude of a large majority of those who attended the Brotherhood banquet at the Christian church last night.

Many were the expressions of disgust at the way Judge Bledsoe took unfair advantage of the situation.

Presumably, at least, because of his position as a federal prosecutor of government liquor criminals, he would have been expected to speak upon the Wright bill or some other moral issue upon which church brotherhoods might be interested, but instead spent considerable of his time venting his spleen in a tirade against the chiropractic and osteopathic bills, Numbers 16 and 20.

Although he admitted he knew nothing about either osteopathy or chiropratic, he presumed to tell the audience of the efficiency and right of authority of the medical board to examine and regulate these professions.

Notwithstanding his attempt to camouflage the issue by stating he was in no way prejudiced, those of us who are familiar with the last minute tactics of the medical association know better and were not surprised. We have anticipated just such things for the final three weeks of the campaign and are prepared.

However, we did not think their speaker would take advantage of a religious organization, united in by split up a spirit of unity and effort at a time when so much of a moral nature is at stake.

Why could he not, with his knowledge of political issues, have taken advantage of such an opportunity to crystalize and solidify the influence of those present in a campaign in favor of the Wright bill? Had those present wished to know about other issues they would have invited someone who at least professed to know something about them.

Both the osteopaths and chiropractors sought opportunity on the program to speak for their bills, but courteously refrained from insisting when informed that other issues of a moral nature were paramount.

If the gentleman wishes to be fair, let him debate these issues with the proponents of the bills. We each welcome the opportunity.

REALTORS SEEK TO ENTERTAIN STATE BODY

Invitations by Realty Board to Be Sent to Organizations

Strenuous efforts will be made to have the members of the State Realty Board, who will convene at Santa Ana on December 6, 7, 8 and 9, to stop in Glendale on the way down to the southern city, according to a decision reached at the meeting of the Glendale Realty Board Wednesday noon. Invitations will be sent to all of the realtors throughout the state and a page advertisement will be inserted in the California Real Estate Journal. A large sign will be placed at the corner of San Fernando road and Broadway directing the realtors into the heart of Glendale. After they arrive they will be entertained in one way or another, the idea being to show them a real good time.

A copy of the McChesney act, which is a model for use by towns in the state where there is no license law, was read.

A copy of the billboard ordinance was presented by City Manager Reeves, who also gave a complete explanation of it and told how it operates and penalties for violation thereof.

It was decided to hold a special meeting of the board next Tuesday night, the purpose of which will be to consider the multiple listing system, which has been before the board for several months.

Mr. Rathburn, publicity manager of the Los Angeles chamber of commerce was the speaker of the day. He compared Glendale with Los Angeles several years ago and stated that in his opinion Glendale's greatest need right now is industries.

"There is a grand bunch of boosters here," said Mr. Rathburn, "and if you will only get the right angle you can do the same as Los Angeles has done. Industries are the backbone of any city, and to insure stability Glendale should have a good assortment of factories and shops of various kinds."

SOUTH BRAND IS CHANGING HANDS RAPIDLY

Hansen-McMullin - Schuyler Sell $100,000 Worth of Business Property in Two Days

One hundred thousand dollars' worth of business property on South Brand, Los Feliz and San Fernando road was sold by the firm of Hanson-McMullin-Schuyler, 112 West Broadway, during the last two days, according to a statement made by Mr. Hanson this morning.

Most of these buyers are securing this property with the intention of building on it within a short time, it is stated, while others are picking it up with a view of speculation.

The activity in Glendale real estate was never greater than it is right now, according to Mr. Hanson. Sales are being made by all of the real estate agents and things generally are "looking up."

In addition to this business property this firm has effected the sale of at least $25,000 worth of residential property during the past week.

WEST BROADWAY MARKET IS READY FOR OPENING

As food and shelter are the fundamental needs of humanity which can never be gotten away from and as food takes precedence even of shelter in Southern California, Glendalians are naturally interested in the big, fine market that is to be opened Saturday and to be known as the West Broadway Market. It is being established by some very wide awake new comers in Glendale headed by Fred Pribolet from Phoenix, Ariz., who will conduct a very sanitary, up-to-date meat market. He will also operate the bakery and delicatessen and promises to make it the best of its kind.

The Von Grocery Company will handle groceries in an efficient manner and to the advantage of patrons. It has a chain of 29 stores enabling it to buy at very close figures.

Tony Karagal, who has had a successful mercantile career covering 25 years in Los Angeles and Pasadena will conduct the fruit and vegetable market, and that is a guarantee of excellence in stock and service.

This new establishment is making its bow to the public Saturday, as stated, and housewives will do well to bear the fact in mind and get acquainted with its proprietors.

OSTEOPATHS OUT FOR INITIATIVE MEASURE NO. 20

The osteopaths of Southern California, who have opened an intensive campaign for the passage of number 20, the osteopathic act on the November ballot are quoting Benjamin Rush, M. D., surgeon general of the Continental army, and one of the signers of the Declaration of Independence, who gave this advice:

"To restrict the art of healing to one class of men and deny equal privileges to others will constitute the bastile of medical science. All such laws are un-American and despotic. They are vestiges of monarchy and have no place in a Republic. The constitution of the Republic should make special provision for medical freedom."

Dr. Harry W. Forbes, president of the California Osteopathic Association, says:

"Number twenty is an initiative brought by 80,000 citizens of California who believe in medical freedom and fair play.

"The one purpose of this act is to obtain for osteopaths the same fair administration of the existing examining and licensing laws that is now enjoyed by the medical doctors, dentists, optometrists and pharmacists. Each of these professions has its own licensing board. There is no desire to change the existing licensing law or the educational standards. The act provides only that the governor and a self-sustaining examining board of five licensed and practicing osteopaths to be selected by him shall carry out the provisions of this law for osteopathic physicians and surgeons.

"The present law contains no provision for the issuance of licenses to practice osteopathy, homeopathy, allopathy, etc. It requires that in order to obtain a license to practice, the graduates of all these systems must have had the same nine years of education and must pass exactly the same three day written examination, which includes every medical and surgical subject. The law specifically provides that the license shall read "Physician and Surgeon Certificate." For fifteen years osteopaths have met these requirements, and now have the same form of license that the medical doctors hold.

"The present board consists of eight medical doctors and two osteopaths. In 1919, by a vote of 8 to 2, they decided to examine no more osteopaths. This refusal to examine was taken to court, where Judge Wellborn, after exhaustive investigation, decided that our college more than met the requirements of the law. In addition to the 4000 hours of study required at other medical colleges, we have a thousand hours of purely osteopathic subjects. It is not for omitting any of their requirements, but for adding to them that the effort is being made to reject and suppress us. Judge Wellborn's decision has been recently upheld in the Supreme Court.

"The medical examining board is not connected with the state board of health, and number 20 does not change or nullify any rulings of that board, nor affect any narcotic law.

"The passage of number 20 will save the taxpayers thousands of dollars by ending the 28 years' constant court and legislative battles between osteopaths and medical doctors."

The osteopaths say that the the thousands of people who are receiving daily benefit from osteopathic treatment must rally for the passage of number 20, or the time may come when it will be impossible for them or their children to get such treatment, when systems of cure will be dictated by the medical class who hold the power. They draw attention to the fact that osteopaths now licensed in the state have nothing to gain personally from the passage of number 20. They are working that osteopathy may live after them.

"GRAND OLD LADY" RECEIVES SENATOR'S COMMISSION

Babson's Letter

WELLESLEY HILLS, Mass., Oct. —because of the recent action of the stock market. When interviewed in Wellesley regarding the matter, Mr. Babson today said the seriousness of the European situation is greater than most people realize:

"It is really surprising that the stock market has held up so well during the past two weeks. Of course the break was due to the gravity of the Turkish situation which was understood only by the big bankers in New York. The real facts are that France is today in quite a similar position to that held by Germany in 1914.

"The real seriousness of the danger has somehow been hidden. The change has come swiftly. A few weeks ago England was in the saddle. At conferences she was the dictator. She did the talking and France did the worrying. Today the situation is just the reverse. England is now in a hole. France deliberately put her there.

"England alone of all European nations has stood for law and order. She alone has stood for the payment of debts, and the fulfillment of obligations. Germany and Austria are bankrupt. Chaos reigns in Russia. Italy is on the verge of bankruptcy. France is compromising. England is the only country who has told us that she will pay her debts with interest.

"England's policy with Germany has been in opposition to that of France. England has wanted to get for France as much out of Germany as possible without killing the goose that laid the golden eggs. France was for killing the goose, but still for demanding the eggs. England was Europe's big brother and upon her the financial world has relied.

"Today England is faced with fighting Europe because she stands practically alone. The new government of Greece is not with her. Germany alone, in case of war, is her only possible ally. The Germany of today is not on friendly terms with the Turkey of today. Should, however, Germany go in with England, there would have to be an entirely new interpretation placed on many European relationships and the problems of those relationships. There is the matter of reparations, for instance. All international finances would be upset.

"Yes, England stands practically alone. Italy will back Turkey. Russia will back Turkey. And, of course, France will back Turkey. Hence it must be kept clear that the real issue is not between Great Britain and Turkey, but between Great Britain and France. France has been backing Turkey. England has been backing Greece. Turkey and Greece, however, have been but pawns on the chessboard.

"When the last war was on, Russia was promised Constintinople. Russia withdrew. Then, it was decided to keep Constantinople free, out of the power of either France or England. England slowly got a bit of the upper hand. This hurt the pride of France who patiently awaited her opportunity. Last month it came. Then France played her cards. In a few hours the entire European situation changed. Today France holds the trumps.

"It is not merely a war on paper, remember. Turkey is fortifying herself by putting guns and troops at strategic points. Frankly, England is in a hole and this is what caused the stock market to break and foreign bonds to tumble. Her own people are against war. There is the memory of the recent bloodshed. There is still the warning mark of great sorrow. An Englishman, too, cannot see himself going to Turkey to fight. When Germany thundered in Europe right at England's door, the English Tommy was on fire to fight. But today it is different. The Englishman remembers sadly what happened at Gallipoli. He remembers the fearful cost of conquering a few Boers in South Africa. He knows that there are over 200,000,000 Mohammedans at Turkey's back door.

"Even the Englishman, who hasn't a son that is already lost or a son to lose, has taxes to pay. England, with her intention of paying her debts, is the only European country that really taxed her people severely. The ordinary English tradesman is up to his chin in taxes. (England has the highest tax rate in the world). He is not eager for more, the weight of which would almost break him. This is the proposition with which England is faced. She has either got to fight the Turks at a tremendous cost of men and money, without the full co-operation of her own people, or else she has to lose India, Egypt, Persia, and the holy land. Do you wonder the stock markets broke?

"What will happen? I do not know, but whatever happens, there will be no check on business. The farmer will be helped by higher prices for wheat. Manufacturing and shipping will become more active. The cost of living will go up. Money will be firmer and scarcer. People will sell their foreign securities. The stock market, however, will not permanently suffer. When the financial history of 1922 is written, this will be chronicled only as a 'break in a bull market.' Moreover, the writers will add: 'Considering the great seriousness of the Turkish situation, it is most surprising that the stock market has behaved so well. Only the fact that business was not inflated but was still 6 points below normal saved the situation. Had the nation in 1922 been enjoying a period of real prosperity, there would have been witnessed a real old-fashioned panic.'"

LITTLE TALKS ON THRIFT

By S. W. STRAUS, President American Society for Thrift

S. W. STRAUS

DO YOU know exactly how you stand in your personal affairs? This is a question that each individual should be able to answer in the affirmative. Lack of such knowledge often leads to failure. Personal management should be as systematic and accurate as successful business administration.

Progress in life is not a matter of what one does today or tomorrow, but it is a matter of what one does habitually. Perhaps you have what you feel is a very substantial income. Perhaps your entire environment is one suggestive of prosperity. Perhaps every outward sign seems to point to your abundant success. But unless you are organized systematically you cannot say that you are administering your private affairs along successful lines.

How long are you sure of your present income? What would happen if you lost your place today? What would you do if you met with a serious accident or became ill for a protracted period? Are you saving any money at all, and, if so, is it enough to provide for your old age?

If you want to do yourself a good turn get your pencil and do a little honest figuring. See just where you stand and what lies ahead for you. If the figures fail to tell you a story that fills you with pride and confidence in the future, then it is time you put yourself on a budget system and began the processes of systematic progress through thrift.

If you had a family of eight children—would you buy enough food for four of them, in order to save money to feed the other four the next time?

A similar plan is proposed by some, just a few who have organized propaganda against the voting of the bonds for the completion of the new high school and the acquisition of a site for the next high school on the northwest side.

Admitting that a $600,000 high school on the site awaiting it would be overcrowded from the day its doors are opened—they are arguing it would be wise to so construct it—and then start building another—where they have land awaiting purchase.

Faith in Glendale they have, abundantly. They know that more sites will be needed. BUT LIFE IS SHORT AND THEY DO NOT WISH ANY HIGH SCHOOL BUILT NOW WHICH WOULD PREVENT THE BUILDING OF A NEW HIGH SCHOOL ON ONE OF THEIR SITES WITHIN THE NEXT FEW YEARS.

Would you rather have one large, economical high school with one teaching staff, in one plant—or would you rather have a yearly bond issue of $600,000 or more, to build another small high school every year?

Would you rather pay the salaries of half a dozen high school faculties—or would you rather have one faculty, one payroll and minimum cost of upkeep?

Few have raised a voice against the voting of the high school bonds who have not been directly or indirectly affected by personal interest, if not of themselves, then of someone else.

They seem to feel—rather no high school—than one not yielding personal profit.

THE LARGER HIGH SCHOOL, WITH A MINIMUM OF EXPENSE, A MAXIMUM OF ECONOMY —IS YOURS FOR THE VOTING. BUT YOU MUST VOTE. THE OPPOSITION WILL BE THERE WITH THE BALLOT.

The enrollment of the high school is 47 per cent over last year already. Without counting 100% gain in night school.

The public schools are overcrowded with an advancing army of children.

Six hundred thousand dollars spent for a new high school every year until Glendale reaches the maximum growth can meet the situation. THREE HUNDRED AND FIFTY THOUSAND VOTED NOW FOR THE NEW PLANT WILL ELIMINATE SUCH PLANTS NEXT YEAR AND THE YEAR AFTER.

Subdivisions around Glendale are rapidly filling up with new taxpayers whose children crowd the schools, whose parents share the cost of your educational system.

THINK! CONSIDER!

AND BE SURE YOU VOTE. REMEMBER OCTOBER 20.

"It's Always Fresh"

NO MORE ALIBIS TO MOTHER BY DAUGHTERS

Domestic Science Department Turns Them Out Mistress of Kitchen

There has been a delightful odor of good things to eat that has been wafted from the cooking rooms of the Domestic Science Department of Glendale High the past few weeks during which the girls have been doing canning and preserving under the direction of the head of the department, Miss Hanson. They have been tutored in the use of three methods, the open kettle, the cold pack, and the pressure cooker. Tomatoes, peaches and pears have been canned and the same fruits have been converted into toothsome pickles. Mock orange marmalade cunningly contrived out of disguised carrots has been made, and its wealthy cousin, pineapple and strawberry conserve, the very name making your mouth water. Then there have been jars put up of peach and orange conserve, jellies made of roselle, quince and of blackberries, the latter manufactured from juice canned a year ago.

The advanced class will shortly take up the preparation of catsup and chili sauce and perhaps try their hands at mustard pickles.

They will also make a study of balanced menus which they will prepare and serve by way of demonstration. With this work they will study household management which includes the planning of a house, its furnishing, and the planning of a budget.

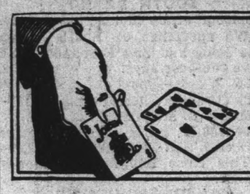
Beginning girls will study foods and the chemical elements that enter into them beginning with beverages and their preparation. In due time they will prepare and serve afternoon tea with the proper accompaniments and in the proper way.

These girls will not be able hereafter to make any alibi to mother. There will be no reason why she should not take the summer vacation leaving Betty Jane to put up the seasonal fruit needed for the family leader.

The next theme after the tea party will be breakfast menus and the foods adapted to them. Later, each girl will in turn prepare and serve a breakfast.

There has been considerable change since mother was young and received very unscientific instruction from her mother or her grandmother at odd times and without knowing why she should do this, that or the other thing.

The untrained wealthy mother should rejoice in the opportunities given her daughter for instruction she could not secure at home where servants rule the kitchen.



Easy Lessons in Auction Bridge

Article No. 4

The Original Bid

The dealer is termed "First Hand," and the other three players, "Second," "Third," and "Fourth Hand," respectively. The so-called "Original Bid" is the first or opening bid, whether made by first, second, third or fourth hand. As it is the first bid that is made, it should be restricted in certain ways so that it can give as exact information as possible to the bidder's partner. Original bids are of two classes: first, those made by first or second hands, before their partners have had a chance to bid; and second, those made by third or fourth hands after their partners have passed. In the latter class, it should be obvious that third and fourth hand bids should be stronger than those required of first or second hand bids. These various distinctions will be taken up at length in subsequent articles. The purpose of this particular article is to impress on the student of Auction the requirements of an original bid by first or second hand, and the importance of sticking to those requirements, so that the original bid always will convey exact information. It is the one bid of the game concerning which there should never be any guess work by partner.

It already has been pointed out (Article 2) that the original bid should be sufficiently strong to produce four tricks in bidder's own hand. Under such conditions he is justified in expecting three tricks from his partner (the so-called average expectancy) and therefore the combined hands will average to produce seven tricks or the bid. The question then arises, what type of hand will average to produce four tricks. First let us consider a suit bid. It has already been noted that a suit of five cards as trump, headed by the A, K, will produce four tricks; the same holds true of a suit such as K, Q, J, 7, 6, or one such as A, Q, J, 4, 3. In other words, any five card suit headed by two quick tricks will average to produce four tricks with that suit as trump. Other combinations that will produce the requisite four tricks are those headed by one quick trick in the suit, such as K Q, A Q, or A J 10, and at least one outside quick trick, such as an Ace or K Q in another suit. The following hands indicate the requirements:

Hearts — A, K, 7, 6, 2
Clubs — 4, 3, 2
Diamonds — J, 4, 2
Spades — 10, 9

The Heart suit is an original bid by first or second hand.

Hearts — J, 4, 3, 2
Clubs — K, Q, J, 4, 2
Diamonds — 10, 4, 2
Spades — J

The Club suit is an original bid by first or second hand.

Hearts — A, 4, 2
Clubs — 4, 3, 2
Diamonds — K, Q, 7, 6, 4
Spades — 10, 9

The Diamond suit is an original bid by either first or second hand, having one quick trick in the suit and one outside quick trick, the Ace of Hearts.

It should now be apparent that the basis of the original bid is two quick tricks, either in the suit bid or one in the suit bid and one in an outside suit. Where the suit is trump, the two quick tricks become four tricks and by combination with partner's hand will produce on the average seven tricks, or the odd trick of the bid. This doubling of the quick trick value of the high cards of a suit is very interesting and works out in an astonishing way. The quick trick value of any cards is their defensive value and experience has shown that when they take the offensive their trick taking possibilities are doubled. This rule also holds true for partner's hand; that is, he can be counted on for three tricks when partner makes the trump but for only one and one-half quick tricks when defending the hand. The conclusion is: That the trick value of a hand at its own best bid or in support of partner's, is approximately double its quick trick or defensive value. This point will be covered in an article on "Supporting Bids."

NEW MILLINER IS PLEASED WITH SUCCESS

Beatrice Bushnell, who came to Glendale last May and established herself as a milliner in an apartment at 114 West Broadway upstairs, says she is well pleased with the patronage she has received and with her location.

She has a large stock of very pretty hats and has a definite policy for building up trade. Said she: "I am never willing to sell a hat to a customer that is unbecoming even though the becoming hat is the more expensive. Also, I aim to keep my hats moderate in price. As a matter of building up custom I would rather sell two $10 hats than one $20 headpiece. My rent is moderate and I can afford to give my customers the benefit of closer prices."

FASCINATING ASH TRAYS

The woman who is always looking for attractive and inexpensive bridge prizes will delight in fascinating ash trays of French pottery with funny little raised figures. One depicts the ancient fable of the fox and the grapes.

HOUSECLEANING TIME

A stick with a notch in the end will be found a great help in taking pictures from the walls. The picture wire slips right into the notch and saves the necessity of a person's climbing up and down.

MRS. GILBERT HAS WONDERFUL SALES THIS WEEK

Mrs. Gilbert of the Gilbert Hat Shop, 123 North Brand, says that she has had a wonderful trade this fall, particularly during her sale last week. As to the popular demand, she says the turbans with high effect in front are very popular and the favorite materials are panne velvet, hatter's plush and metal cloth. Poke shapes with silver lace brims and French flowers are much in vogue, and velour hats for sport wear are going well.

Except for black, which is never displaced, brown in the warmer shades is the leading color.

Mrs. Gilbert opened a new shop on Wednesday in Long Beach where she has every prospect of securing a fine trade.

A SERVICEABLE DRESS

An extremely attractive dress for the college or business girl has an overblouse of crepe de chine banded with a wide hem of blue twill and a skirt also of the navy twill. It is simply and beautifully made and comes in combinations of gray and blue, henna and blue, and dark red and blue. It is reasonably priced.

HEAD STUFFED FROM CATARRH OR A COLD

Says Cream Applied in Nostrils Opens Air Passages Right Up.

Instant relief—no waiting. Your clogged nostrils open right up; the air passages of your head clear and you can breathe freely. No more hawking, snuffling, blowing, headache dryness. No struggling for breath at night; your cold or catarrh disappears.

Get a small bottle of Ely's Cream Balm from your druggist now. Apply a little of this fragrant, antiseptic, healing cream in your nostrils. It penetrates through every air passage of the head, soothes the inflamed or swollen mucous membrane and relief comes instantly.

It's just fine. Don't stay stuffed-up with a cold or nasty catarrh. —Adv.

PLOTS OF SUPERGANG UNFOLD LIKE NOVEL AS AUTHORITIES GIVE BOYS TO JUVENILE COURT

Nearly Thirty Youths Will Appear Before the Juvenile Judge Within a Few Days for Trial on Theft Charges

Former Marshal's Car Stolen by Thieving Gang, Who Have Taken Hundreds of Dollars Worth of Merchandise

Like the course of a novel is the gradual unfoldment of the workings of the supergang of youths operating in Burbank up to a week ago, when the police began to close upon over a score of offenders who have been interfering with the property of the vicinity for months, it is alleged.

Nearly thirty youths will appear before the juvenile judge in a day or two, but it is possible that not more than eight or nine will be sent to reform school.

The evidence gathered by local authorities and the names of the lads involved are withheld.

One of the oldest boys, caught by the local police, though formerly a resident of Burbank, has been coming from Los Angeles and has acted as chief of the gang of young thieves. Hundreds of dollars worth of loot was deposited weekly under the grammar school, authorities say, and the Los Angeles ringleader made regular trips to Burbank in an automobile to gather up the collected spoils. Occasionally he distributed money to his young scholars in crime to "keep them interested."

Thousands of dollars worth of automobiles and merchandise have fallen into the hands of the ring, and for months Burbank police believed that the town had become the stamping ground of a group of clever and daring thugs that made occasional sallies from Los Angeles.

Several older boys led the boys here, it is said, but stopped operations some time ago, and police have failed to locate them.

Nine automobiles, including a Saxon and a car owned by Mr. Catlin, former marshal of Burbank, are among the thefts perpetrated

YOUNG RUNAWAYS CAUGHT AT BURBANK

Two boys, Clifford L. Brown and Paul Taylor, were caught by Burbank officers yesterday morning and held because of their suspicious behavior.

When Mrs. Brown, mother of one of the boys, was notified at her Pasadena home, that her boy was being detained by the police here, she came to Burbank immediately.

Th boys had left home because they "hated school." They had set out for "nowhere in particular," except to "see the world." Their sightseeing trip came to a grievous end in a cell at the Burbank jail.

NEW ORLEANS, Oct. 20.—The American Legion convention today demanded removal of Brig. Gen. Sawyer, chief co-ordinator of the federal hospitalization department.

TREND OF FASHION

By HELEN MERRILL EMERY

There is a youthful quality about the slim-waisted, wide-skirted dance frocks that is most appealing. This quality added to an undeniable picturesque effect is probably the reason that they are proving formidable rivals to draped or slender straight up and down dresses.

The most striking are those made of brilliant metal brocades or velvet in rich, glowing colors, but there are any number of charming frocks made of faille and taffeta, which are not quite so expensive and which are admirably adapted to the requirements of the debutante or school-girl.

A really enchanting model was displayed at one of the recent openings. The coloring the combination of materials and the details suggest possibilities to the girl who is planning her winter wardrobe. There was a tight little bodice of rose color taffeta delicately veiled with cream color lace. It had a square neck and no sleeves. The skirt of taffeta was cut in three circular sections. These were sewed together and where they joined tiny flat bows of taffeta were placed at intervals of five inches. Open all the way in front to show a petticoat of cream net and lace, this circular overskirt was considerably shorter in front than at the sides and showed to advantage a facing of rose, almost a flame color. Silver ribbon tied in front with many loops and long ends fashioned the girdle.

Somewhat simpler but extremely pretty is the model illustrated. A pale rose color taffeta is chosen for this frock. The pointed bands edged on each side with silver ribbon are of the most delicate green tafetta. Silver ribbon outlines the neck and arm openings. Its exquisite coloring and smart simplicity make it an ideal frock for a young girl or the youthful matron whose lines are slender enough to carry off a wide, full skirt and tight fitting bodice.

YONKI'S DEATH UNAVOIDABLE,' SAYS JURY

Engineer Says Man May Have Attempted Suicide

The death of Chris Yonki was caused by a "fracture of the skull caused by being struck by a Southern Pacific railroad train while the deceased was walking on the private right of way of the said company, and we believe the accident was unavoidable upon the part of the train crew of the said train." This was the verdict returned by the coroner's jury Tuesday.

The jury consisted of W. B. Pearson, Ralph Chidester, Edward J. Wedgwood, Walter Story and W. G. Simmons.

Engineer Charles McComas of 3125 Manitou avenue, Los Angeles, who was in charge of the engine which struck Yonki, said: "Just after passing the water column on the Southern Pacific right of way I saw a man walking along the outer edge of the roadway and clear of the tracks, on a path. I sounded the whistle and when I had come within 200 yards of the man he got off the path and began to walk along the edge of the ties. I continued blowing the whistle, and it was blowing when the engine struck him. I was going perhaps 20 miles an hour. The engine bell had been ringing ever since we left the station at Los Angeles.

"The whistle was sounding until we hit the man and he never made a sign that he had heard it. It seems to me he was either deaf or trying to commit suicide."

J. P. Lattorel, brakeman on the train, also testified that from the step of the smoking car where he had been standing he saw the man struck.

The man is to be cremated at the expense of the county.

FOREST LABORATORY COURSES

By CHARLES H. SHINN
Forest Examiner

Because we have forests and use lumber as well as thousands of other forest products, we also have forest laboratories where practical persons very often go to school for a while, thus increasing their efficiency. In fact, our forests keep chemists and all sorts of specialists extremely busy. Something new and wonderful is likely to happen any minute, or perhaps it is just a new use of an old fact.

Listen, then to what Mr. C. L. Hill of district five of the Forest Service has to tell us. He is in charge of the office of forest products, Ferry Bldg., San Francisco. He reports that plans are now being made by the Forest Service to expand the teaching of the forest products laboratory at Madison, Wis., so as to benefit other wood using industries besides those interested in kiln drying and boxing and crating. Beginning September 11 a new course in the gluing of wood was inaugurated, and courses along other lines of wood utilization will probably be added during the next 12 months.

"Three short courses were given in September as follows: The kiln-drying of wood; the gluing of wood; boxing and crating. The course in kiln-drying has been given 27 times with a total attendance of 292 men. The course in boxing and crating has been given 16 times with a total attendance of 143 men. The men who have taken these courses represented a large variety of interests and came from all parts of the country and even foreign countries."

The new course in "gluing" includes studies in the structure of various woods and how it affects gluing; prevention of shrinking, swelling, warping, and cupping in boards or panels; effect of moisture in wood on glue joints; selection and use of animal glues, vegetable glues, and water-resistant glues; principles of laying veneer and plywood construction; control of temperature, pressure, and assembly time in gluing; testing strength of glued joints; and analysis of defects common in gluing.

Such courses are of a most practical nature. The purpose of the Forest Service in offering them is to help the industries to get better results with more of the lumber they make or buy. In this way not only will less timber need to be cut but the profits of production will be greater. Many firms who have sent representatives to the forest products laboratory for a week or two of study have stated that they were able to effect savings and improve the quality of their goods to the value of thousands of dollars.

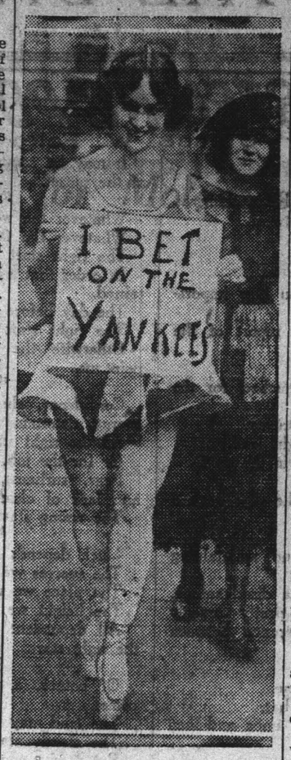
SHE THOUGHT YANKEES COULDN'T LOSE, SO PAYS WAGER IN FIFTH AVENUE



How could the Yankees lose, asked Miss Nellie Breen. Well they did and she is shown here going down Fifth avenue, New York, between noon and 1 o'clock. That's a very busy time.

GLACIERS

still exist in Colorado, the largest and most interesting known being the Araphoe, directly west of the city of Boulder and visible from the campus of the state university.

Loxley, the poet, was indignant. He felt his poems were good; that they were the result of divine inspiration, he was almost certain. But the editor of a popular weekly bad rejected several of them, giving no reason for his action.

The two met at a literary dinner party, and revenge was smouldering in the poet's breast.

He leaned across the table and said:

"I saw a good thing in that paper of yours the other day."

"Yes? What was it?" the editor beamed.

"A pound of fish," said Loxley, beaming balefully back.

NORTHWEST TO SEE NEW ERA OF FOOTBALL

PORTLAND, Ore., Oct. 19.—The Pacific northwest will see a new era in college football this fall. Coaches face the necessity of building new teams in almost every instance. New material, while it has looked good in a few early games, depends for its future market value entirely on chance.

The university of Washington was hard hit by the faculty knife, which has pruned down Washington's chances by clipping Ham Green, negro flash, from the football calendar for a quarter, and discouraging the chances of half a dozen other first string varsity and freshmen players who looked sweet in moleskins last year.

Washington state, at Pullman, should turn out a Cougar herd unusually worthy of the name this year. Captain Dunton, tackle, a good offensive and defensive player, is back. Sandberg will play full. Durrwatcher and Davis should make a nifty pair of guards, and with Joe Burkes or Vosberg at center, the Cougar center attack looks hard to beat. Hickey seems sure of the signal job. Line material at Pullman looks better than that for the wings and the backfield, and Coach Gus Welch faces his hardest job in finding a pair of running mates for Sandberg. The Cougars have one of the hardest schedules they have ever attempted.

Coach Rutherford's hardest job at Oregon Aggies is in finding men to replace Dick Richert and Roy Loughrey, who failed to return to college.

The university of Oregon's hopes were raised by the return of Floyd and "Tiny" Shields, guards, whose presence on the team this year had been despaired of. "Pink" Callison, the center pin for this husky pair, sustained severe injuries while working for a logging company this summer. He is expected to leave the hospital and get in shape in time for the most important conference games. Coach Huntington has a nice bunch of material to work into shape, and Oregon's chances for a place near the head of the conference depends on how well he does it.

Idaho opened its season against Whitman college, and football chances at Idaho this year depend on the skilled seasoning of a small squad by R. L. Mathews, a Notre Dame man who has made an enviable record as football player, coach. Physical Director Albert Knudson and R. E. Neidig will assist Mathews in taking the team through the heavy schedule.

Whitman college, at Walla Walla, Wash., presents a doubtful football problem this year, according to Coach "Nig" Borleske. The team is husky and has a fine neuclus of letter men, yet the schedule offers unusual weight, and Whitman must turn out a crack team to bring home its share of conference and non-conference scalps.

Now that the preliminary games are beginning to clear away, the relative weight of the northwest teams can soon be gauged, and a fair idea obtained of what men of known quantity compose certain teams.

BOXING IN BERLIN.

Hamburg.—The German-American boxing club, newly organized here, promises to do much to bring Germany to the front fistically. Vernon Davis and L. Wolf, promoters of the club, declare they have many good matches in prospect. Tommy Smith, featherweight champion of New York, who has fought Jack Sharkey, Danny Frust and Joe Lynch, will have charge of the technical side.

Truths in Epigram

The eye of the intellect sees in all objects what it brought with it the means of seeing. — Thomas Carlyle (1795-1881).

Whenever there is a human being, I see God-given rights inherent in that being, whatever may be the sex or complexion. —William Lloyd Garrison (1805-1789).

THE NEXT STEP

The human intelligence, considered as to average quality, lacks so much of imagination, that it fails to appreciate human needs. A great invention is brought to common knowledge, and is accepted, so that its use becomes one of the commonplaces of experience. Yet before the advent of the appliance, few had realized that there was a place for such an appliance to fill. People in the days of the stage coach were, for the most part, quite content with that system of locomotion. They felt no demand for any superior method. They had not visioned the railroad. Railroads had long been in operation, and brought to a high state of efficiency, before anybody thought of the automobile. The airship followed. There had been no popular demand for it. Its presence and utility created the demand. The telegraph succeeded the slower mails. The telephone came in due season. Then various types of wireless communication, culminating, apparently, in the radio. Sound may be sent to any distance. Now science says that power may be projected across great spaces. There is none to make denial of the possibility. In this age of miracles, such denial would be presumption; a forgetting of past performances. The time was, not long ago, when the Roentgen ray would be mentioned only with a superior smile. The superior smile has vanished now; given way to a feeling of expectancy and profound faith that the limitations of achievement are beyond measurement or estimate. If power may be transmitted over seas and continents, another of the industrial revolutions that mark the activities of mankind is at hand. There will be no more waste power. The dashing falls in the heart of Africa will be turning wheels all over the globe. The swift streams of the Andes will be contributing to progress. Such may be the next step. But after, there will be other steps, although the dream of them has not yet found lodgment in mortal mind.

SCANDALOUS JAIL MANAGEMENT

Just following the demand of the sheriff for the retirement of County Jailer Cronin comes the scandal of a daylight escape of prisoners, who, however, were retaken some 24 hours later. Of the four who got away, one was a convicted murderer named Wilson. He was rated as one of the most desperate criminals ever in custody in California. The murder he committed was that of an associate who, in the belief of Wilson, had betrayed an earlier plan of escape. When Wilson was convicted he declared that he would get away. He got away. That he could have done this in the absence of connivance both inside the jail and out, would be a most unreasonable assumption. The matter is too grave to be glossed over. It does not call for a mere reprimand and dismissal. It calls for severe penalty. A sort of king among thieves, who also is a cold-blooded assassin, has been turned loose to prey upon society. He is said to have large sums at command. Who was bribed to aid him?

For a long time there have been rumors that the county jail housed such conditions as should not obtain in any public institution. There have been reports of special privileges to prisoners able to pay for them; of violation of rules for maintenance of discipline, and of a jovial comradeship between inmates and keepers, including gambling and many forms of barter. The traffic in forbidden drugs is believed to have been constant. Lawyers of a certain type are said to have been favored instead of being barred out. Such has been the conduct in the women's quarters that one female prisoner had to be removed to another city to save her from violence.

Most of these allegations appear in a list of charges brought by the sheriff against the jailor. They indicate the unfitness of the accused. They suggest that in the interests of decency there be such a cleaning out of the county prison as the place never has experienced. Prisoners are supposed to be undesirable persons, but the officials guarding them ought to belong to a different class.

AND THEN WHAT?

According to witnesses at the inquest, the death of forty-seven miners employed at the Argonaut mine was unnecessary. At this writing no formal verdict has been rendered, and not all the witnesses have been heard. It is possible that the testimony thus far given may be more than offset by what is to come. The assertion has been made by several on the stand that if the fan at the mouth of a neighboring shaft had been stopped upon discovery of the fire, the men would have been saved. In all the statements given there has been a strong intimation that the first efforts were in the direction of conserving property, and that no move was made having for its distinct purpose the saving of the imprisoned miners. There were frantic efforts enough after there remained no human chance that the entombed workers had survived.

In the light of many investigations, there is no particular reason to suppose that the blame in this instance will be definitely placed, or that if so placed, it will be permitted seriously to inconvenience those upon whom it may rest. In most cases where the loss of life is due to the carelessness and negligence of persons not the victims, no penalty is exacted, and no stipulations are set up to prevent recurrence of the tragedy. Should the verdict embody a severe reprimand, the natural inquiry will be "and then what?" To this the natural answer will be "Nothing."

THE CALL THAT GOES FAR

When the fine ship "City of Honolulu" was found to be burning, and with the flames beyond control, it was alone on the great ocean. So far as the officers could know, they were hundreds of miles from help. A call was sent by wireless over the waters in every direction, and it reached many a craft. Such as were within possible reaching distance started to the rescue. The nearest arrived in time. Of all aboard the doomed steamer, not one was lost. While the danger seemed the most threatening there was no panic. The passengers knew that the call had gone out and would be heeded, for somewhere it would be heard by brave men. The modern ship, hundreds of miles from shore, no longer is isolated. The message it chooses to loose may be relayed around the world.

The success of wireless in this disaster calls attention anew to the marvels of modern invention. What today is wrought with ease, once would have been regarded as a miracle. Even a generation ago, the suggestion that some time there might be communication across great spaces unspanned by wire, would have been ridiculed. The radio as used ashore is devoted largely to pleasure. Probably many practical landsmen regard it still as a toy. Not so "they who go down to the sea in ship." These know it as the bond between themselves and safety, a long, elastic and tenuous bond, but sure.

Senator Borah is heralded as the greatest member of the august body that so often has retired to the cloakroom to escape his voice. The statement comes from Senator Reed, probably regarded by himself and Borah, as a first class authority. Moreover, the verdict has the approbation of Hearst, which may be considered to settle the matter beyond dispute.

A NEW EPITHET

By DR. FRANK CRANE

There is a pleasure in the expression of our dislike that is not to be discounted.

Dr. Frank Crane

When we have called a man everything we can lay our tongue to, it is a friend, indeed, who will suggest some additional thing we might call him that will hurt worse.

I am speaking of the vast unregenerate mass of the human race, one of whom I am which.

Mr. Roosevelt, along with his other distinguished services to his countrymen, helped along by coining such phrases as "undesirable citizen," "out-patient of Bedlam," "member of the Ananias Club," and so on.

And now comes science and makes its contribution.

In the Gobi Desert a monster has been discovered with a skull five feet long. It had to have this long head in order to reach to the ground to get its food, as it was not built low like the rhinoceros, but high like an elephant.

In order to be able to browse and root from its elephant height it needed a head of tremendous size and length, such as the elephant would have to have if it were not luckily provided with a trunk.

The name that has been given to this little pet is baluchitherium. It was called this because it was discovered in Baluchistan.

According to Dr. W. D. Matthews, paleontologist of the American Museum of Natural History, the baluchitherium "was not distinguished by mental power, and probably had a colossal eating equipment but a minute brain box."

You have probably known people of that kind, and you can now vent your indignation against any one of them by calling him or her a baluchitherium.

It will probably make the designated party very angry, because he will not know what you mean. If he does know, it will make him angrier.

It will be recalled that Dr. Samuel Johnson wrought a fishwife up into a fury of passion by calling her a hypothenuse.

Science also furnishes us with another epithet. You might call a man a hesperopithecus, which means ape-man. You probably know some people to whom that term would apply.

And there is the particularly nasty sounding term, pithecanthropus. This means a back number, for it is the term applied to a man who lived in the days before the anthropus lost his pithec.

When we studied geography, in boyhood days, we often wondered about the Gobi Desert and what it was good for. Now we know. It is developing into one of the best cuss word mines extant.

THE RIGHT WORD

By W. CURTIS NICHOLSON

QUERIES

Sequences of Tenses

J. F. Murphy, Chestertown, N. Y.: "Is tho following correct: 'If every son loved his dad the way I love mine, what a beautiful life this would be'?" Answer: Yes. When the verb of the principal clause of a sentence is in the past tense (would be is in the past potential), the verb of the subordinate clause should be in the past tense or in the future subjunctive (should love, also called the past potential).

Singular Required

Miss E. Bockelman, Chicago, Ill.: "Please give me the benefit of your advice on the following sentence: 'Every one should watch their efficiency and constantly strive to improve it and not allow their efforts to. . . .' I am under the impression that the word 'their' is correct in this sentence, but some one else believes the correct word is 'his'." Answer: The right word is his, referring to its singular antecedent every one.

Potpourri

Unknown, Spokane, Wash.: "Kindly correct the following sentences: 'Mary will go to the mountains'; 'Which train goes to St. James Park, the 7 A. M. or the 2 P. M.?'; 'I will stand by the flag of the brave; long may it wave'; 'If the day is fair I will go on Tuesday'; 'A sad mistake like that will never happen again'; 'The water is cold and deep'; 'Let not your enemies worry you'; 'Homer went'; 'I received my message at 7 A. M.'; 'I did receive my message at 7 A. M.'" Answer: The foregoing sentences are now correctly written. Readers will please not send in unsigned communications.

Who Made the Criticism?

Unknown, New York City: This correspondent sends in a copy of "The Right Word" of September 13 and corrects the word that to who in the following: '. . . it is of prime importance to turn out of schools and colleges boys and girls that use good English'." Answer: That is the right word, the clause, to which it belongs, being restrictive.

THE LISTENING POST

By James W. Foley

That is an important thing.
Even in so simple and humble a thing as the writing of a Listening Post.
Or the making of a poem.

* * *

The foot racer will tell you how important it is,
To get away right at the report of the pistol shot.
There he is.
On his toes and fingers couched for the spring.
On which depends the getaway.
The right start means a slight lead.
Enough, if he holds it, to win the race.

* * *

A wrong start means that he slips back a little.
Others take the lead.
All through the race he is not maintaining a lead.
He is trying to overcome a disadvantage.
And where runners are pretty evenly matched, it means the difference between victory and defeat.

* * *

Then again in the ball game.
The first batter wields his bat.
He fouls once and swings once and then again.
A strike-out.
The pitcher takes renewed confidence.
He has made the right start.

* * *

Or it may be he has to face three other batters.
With a two or three base hit before them.
The batting team got the right start.
A run in prospect.
It may be enough to win the game right at the outset.

* * *

Whatever the work to do.
Whatever the task.
The right start is important.
In order that a gained lead may be maintained.
The day before us.
The right start is important.
Otherwise the day's work may disappoint us.

* * *

Confidence, cheerfulness, health, purpose, energy, determination.
All the right start for the day.
Or for the job.
Fear, surliness, uncertainty, mental fog and lack of clearness.
The wrong start.

* * *

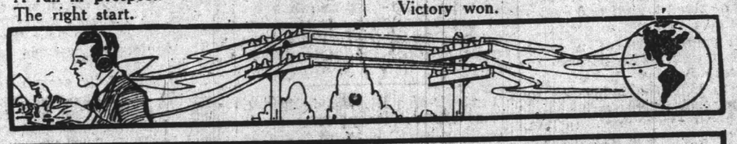
Much depends on the right start.
The success we wish to achieve.
The place we would win.
The height we would attain.
All dependent to a certain degree upon the right start.

* * *

Of course, a wrong start can be overcome.
The lead may be overtaken.
The disadvantage may be set aside.
But it is a good deal more difficult.
The right start sets us off with hope and courage.

* * *

In life the right start is important.
A lead gained at the beginning of the race.
Confidence achieved.
Place maintained.
Victory won.



SONGS OF THE POST'S POETS

"Flow Gently, Sweet Afton" —By Robert Burns (1759-1796)

Flow gently, sweet Afton, among thy green braes;
Flow gently, I'll sing thee a song in thy praise;
My Mary's asleep by thy murmuring stream,
Flow gently, sweet Afton, disturb not her dream.

Thou stock-dove whose echo resounds through the glen,
Ye wild whistling blackbirds in yon thorny den,
Thou green-crested lap-wing, thy screaming forbear;
I charge you disturb not my slumbering fair.

How softly, sweet Afton, thy neighboring hills,
Far marked with the courses of clear-winding rills;
There daily I wander as noon rises high,
My flocks and my Mary's sweet cot in my eye.

How pleasant thy banks and green valleys below,
Where wild in the woodlands the primroses blow;
There oft as mild evening weeps over the lea,
The sweet-scented birk shades my Mary and me.

Thy crystal stream, Afton, how lovely it glides,
And winds by the cot where my Mary resides;
And wanton thy waters her snowy feet lave,
As, gathering sweet flowers, she stems thy clear wave.

Flow gently, sweet Afton, among thy green braes;
Flow gently, sweet river, the theme of my lays;
My Mary's asleep by the murmuring stream,
Flow gently, sweet Afton, disturb not her dream.

FINDS BODY STORES VITAMIN SUPPLIES

The body can store up vitamins for future use. Dr. H. C. Sherman, of Columbia university, in an address before the American Public Health association meeting in Cleveland, emphasized the importance of taking more than the minimum amount of vitamins required.

Laboratory animals fed on the minimum amount of vitamins required for growth and then deprived of them altogether fail rapidly, he said, while animals which have been given a large surplus of vitamins have continued to grow for some time after the vitamins have been taken away. Human beings fed on the minimum amount have not always been saved from the so-called deficiency diseases.

The amount of vitamins in meat will vary considerably according to the diet upon which the animal has been fed. The same is true to a lesser degree of the nutrition afforded vegetables and fruits in different localities.

Milk, eggs, fruits and vegetables in ample quantities were recommended by Dr. Sherman to supply these mysterious vitamins.

"Vitamins," said Dr. Sherman, "are like electricity. They can be handled and studied through their effects, but their exact nature is not yet known. Recent chemical experiments, however, seem to indicate that at least two substances may be involved in the effect hitherto attributed to vitamin A and similarly to vitamin B."

Just why "pure corn liquor" or "moonshine" has a more vicious kick than aged-in-the-wood whisky is explained by J. M. Doran, head of the industrial alcohol and chemical division of the federal prohibition commissioner's office.

Before and after prohibition analyses show that the only essential difference between the "aged-in-the-barrel" and "moonshine" whiskies is in the aldehyde content. These aldehydes found in the local and home distilled article are very harmful to the human interior, he said, and can only be eliminated by fractionating in an alcohol column or long aging in wooden barrels.

Salts of zinc and copper also contaminate many illicit liquors. The evidence at hand seems to indicate that the after effects in cases of alcoholism are worse than before prohibition, Mr. Doran warned.

Aside from the ghastly effects of the drinking of wood alcohol, redistilled denatured alcohol, tincture of ginger and other dangerous concoctions, home-made "moonshine" was declared a most serious problem.

EASTERN POINT OF VIEW

WISDOM OF HUGHES

[New York Herald]

Secretary Hughes while deftly explaining this government's approval of the open Straits purpose of the allied powers, expressed neither approval nor disapproval of the specific gifts of European territory, sovereignty and influence offered to the Turk by the allied powers if he would stop war making and go into a peace conference to arrange the details of taking over the proffered European booty.

Secretary Hughes did not mention the matter. He did not intimate it, although nobody could have said a truer thing than that for the allied powers to keep the Turk out of Europe would be "clearly in accordance with American sentiment."

But Secretary Hughes could not well have said that. In refraining from expressing any view on that gruesome aspect of the Turkish situation, trained lawyer that he is, judicial counselor that he is and intellectual master that he is, Secretary Hughes was looking carefully after the traditional policy of American non-interference with Old World political games and Old World territorial loot, while not, perhaps, losing sight of the future.

It is to be hoped the armistice is arranged so as to cause a closed season for Armenians and Greeks.

COMMENT ON DAY'S NEWS

By HENRY JAMES

Almost any medium has a Little Eva on his or her list of performers. That is rather a mediocre seance that is unmarked by the presence of Little Eva. She has a tremulous and piping voice that moves the impressionable to tears and the brutal unbeliever to laughter. If this is the Eva that figured sweetly in Uncle Tom's Cabin, it is singular that good old Tom should permit his charge to roam about so numerously. No longer is Little Eva a single, saintly child, but she is an army now. She comes to hold ghostly confabs with all sorts of people. She helps fit-throwing seers to befool the public for coin, and what does she get out of it? Not a thing. They won't even permit her to rest.

HENRY JAMES

One female medium has sued another to recover Little Eva. She avers that L. E. was her property, but that a competitor with a stronger pull has drawn her away. The case should be thrown out of court. If Eva were a unit it might be different, but Eva either is a multitude, or an essence mingling with the odor of an incense produced by the burning of punk. The medium unable to command her services has got into the wrong calling, and doesn't measure up to the standard at all. The suggestion is made respectfully that she try the hand laundry business.

Moreover, a cause so delicate could not come within jurisdiction of a court designed to deal with the material, the tangible. It belongs to that unseen realm where the soul of Conan Doyle disports in moments of exaltation. If there is a big spirit that farms out the wee ones somewhat in the manner of the padrone of the earth plane, of course, it should be rebuked and chastened. No method of doing this presents itself. The discontented medium might as well drop the case, and go fishing in space for another Little Eva; for the unseen woods that shade the mystic shores so familiar to the medium, are full of 'em.

The Rhode Island minister who was slain, together with the leader of his choir, had written the woman a mess of mushy letters that meddlesome specialists of morbidity have just dragged to light. If, from some ethereal coign of vantage, the late minister is getting a squint at things mundane, he ought to feel grateful to the person who shot him before discovery of the letters.

An ungallant New Yorker, who had promised a woman that he would divorce his wife, so as to marry the second woman, reneged, and observing this breach of the rules of the game, she (not the wife) shot him. Perhaps there is a moral to this and perhaps not.

* * *

The girl who offers herself in marriage for a stated sum, the same to go to the benefit of aged and worthy parents, no longer is a novelty. Nor does the game work, as a rule. The man about to undertake the support of a family, seldom is in a mood to lay out his substance on the in-laws he is to acquire.

Lieutenant Maughn of the United States army lately flew at the rate of 248½ miles per hour, the fastest any human being ever changed from place to place in safety. When prophesy was made that trains were to run thirty miles an hour, it was scoffed at because of the knowledge that the human frame could not stand the strain of being transported at such speed.

* * *

When a "poor wolking goil" convicted of a series of cunningly devised thefts, seeks probation, the natural impulse of the court is to grant it, a court being human. Still, the impulse may be resisted. In a recent case of this sort the probation officer found that the prisoner on one occasion, after a span of illegal prosperity, had spent $2000 in a week in having a good time. She had beauty and a winning smile, but the figures cited were too much of a handicap.

National clothiers are informing men as to the style of trousers that must be worn. In such matters the male sex is less pliable than the other and more beauteous. The male goes in for comfort, while the female of the species holds comfort to be a mere nothing, and not to be considered. Of course there are campus boys who will accept any fool fashion handed to them, but the mature American under the necessity of using a razor, wants trousers that will not go into the discard until worn out. If he finds a last year's pair in his closet, he does not hesitate to take it out and don it, while in his heart is the unspoken sentiment that if people don't like his way of doing, they may lump it.

Dirigible C-2 has met the end of its kind. There is nothing left of it but ashes, and warped ribs of steel that fire failed to destroy. This is the machine that lately flew across the continent, and up and down the Pacific coast. It had started back to Washington, reached San Antonio, and there fate overtook it. The dirigible, so far as may be judged by records achieved, is a luxury. It belongs to the ephemera of aviation. No dirigible yet has had a chance to succumb to the weakness of old age, or to know the joys of price, for all appear to be cut down in infancy.

WATCHING THE PARADE

BY JOHN PILGRIM

After my friend from the country got through with me this morning I was about ready to turn in my key and quit. I felt like a moron, which is the latest and most delightful name for a congenial idiot. I had disclosed the existence of the largest known mass of misinformation, but I did not worry about that particularly.

"Any one," I said to myself comfortingly, "might be wrong."

What ruffled the back hair of my family pride was the number of common, every-day subjects on which I had no information whatever. Bill was able to prove that I had been walking through some years and streets in a trance. I told him that my office was in the big white building he could see from the station.

"Sure," said Bill. "But do you mean the stone and brick building or the tile and brick building?"

"You'll not believe it, but I could not be sure. I have been living in one of them for years and never looked carefully enough to see how its complexion was applied. Or maybe I did, years ago, but had forgotten. Bill asked me on what street Old Sanford's beefsteak joint could be found. I walk to that dingy restaurant every time the need for raw meat overcomes me, but I could not give him the street or number. He said it made no difference.

We'll meet at your club, if you don't mind.

I didn't tell Bill, but I made an earnest effort to recollect how the club interior is finished, and I failed. I have a general idea that it is dark and sombre, but whether oak, walnut, mahogany, or paint I do not know. I am sure of some rooms, but not of all. Bill's car is a sort of a muckle dun color, but if I were on the stand I could not swear that it is a dark blue, or a dark brown, or a black. My wife opened the evening debate by commenting adversely on the quality of some of her gowns, and I found I could not remember them. This is dreadful, no doubt, but true. She spoke of the smoke-gray and the burnt coffee—or terms approximating thereto—and I had not the slightest notion what she was talking about.

As long as I am able to bat a measurable .300 in the busy haunts of trade I am not going to worry about this almost complete breakdown of my faculties. But I do propose to train my memory into dependability. It can be done, you know. Reduced to the simplest terms, the memory cures all work out this way:

"Compel your memory to remember."

DO YOU KNOW THAT—?

BIG EATERS GET KIDNEY TROUBLE

The American men and women must guard constantly against Kidney trouble, because we eat often too much red meat and all our food is rich. Our blood is filled with uric acid which the kidneys strive to filter out; they weaken from overwork, become sluggish, the eliminative tissues clog and the result is kidney trouble, bladder weakness and a general decline in health.

When your kidneys feel like lumps of lead; your back hurts or the urine is cloudy, full of sediment, or you are obliged to seek relief two or three times during the night; if you suffer with sick headache, or dizzy, nervous spells, acid stomach, or if you have rheumatism when the weather is bad, get from your pharmacist about four ounces of Jad Salts; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys may then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to flush and stimulate clogged kidneys; to neutralize the acids in the urine so it no longer is a source of irritation, thus often ending bladder disorders.

Jad Salts is inexpensive; cannot injure, makes a delightful effervescent lithia water beverage and belongs in every home, because nobody can make a mistake by having a good kidney flushing any time.—Adv.

FORMER MARSHAL BADLY HURT AGAIN

Purrier Pluckily Fights Wilson and Jail-breaking Pals Single-handed

Henry Purrier, for 15 years marshal at Burbank, is again plucky and again lies seriously injured as a result of conscientious offorts to fulfill his duty. He lies beaten and mangled at his home at 826 Tujunga avenue, Burbank, the victim of blows and slashes of the arch-criminal Wilson, and his two jail-breaking comrades, Spingola and Ward, all held on serious charges.

Four scars, marks of bullet wounds, received by Purrier on July 29, 1920, are evidences of his narrow escape over two years ago, when he was shot by men who were robbing the Hood Tire shop in Burbank.

It was at the same time that Night Marshal Normand of Burbank was shot and killed. Purrier followed the bandits and kept up a running gun fight with them until four bullets found their way into his body and stopped his pursuit. The bandits were later captured and are now serving terms in the penitentiary.

Purrier lay for days in the hospital at Burbank following his battle with the desperadoes. When he recovered he returned to his duties as a police officer and later became turnkey at the county jail in Los Angeles.

Surgeons have taken dozens of stitches in the deep wounds which Purrier sustained in his battle with the three men Tuesday, who fought their way out of the county jail, and two terrific blows on the top of his head left ugly gashes. Bruises all over his body, and a gash at the base of his skull are further evidences of the struggle he had.

The man is 36 years of age and has a wife who lives with him on Tujunga avenue. He has been with the sheriff's office for more than twelve years and was made night jailer the first of the present year.

Here is the story which Purrier tells:

"I was on the first floor, about the center of the building at 6:45 Tuesday morning when I heard Glaze, deputy sheriff on duty with me, come running and shouting down the steps, 'Some one has shot Condon.'

"Condon, another deputy sheriff on duty, had gone up on the third floor with Glaze to unlock the cells in the tank room. On the heels of Glaze I saw three men with blue steel revolvers in their hands. They were Wilson, Spingola and Ward.

"They rushed toward me. I grabbed Wilson around the waist and started fighting with him. Through my shirt I could feel the muzzle of Wilson's gun buried in my back. Wilson kept telling me, 'Get 'em up, Purrier.'

"I gave two uppercuts to Wilson's chin that he won't forget. In a few minutes, one of the bandits, Ward, I think, jabbed against me and struck me several blows, with the trigger part of his gun.

"Wilson took the keys to the jail from my pocket and the other two men stood over me holding and kicking me."

KIDNAPPED BABY CRY DISGUSTS OFFICER

Sixty-mile an Hour Run Results in Farce Baby Hunt

"The gypsies have stolen a baby!" The call came into the Burbank police station early yesterday morning. Desk Sergeant Young sent Motorcycle Officer Gates to Roscoe, five miles away, at double quick time.

Officer Gates seized his cap and dashed through the door of the cage which surrounds the police office, but before he could reach the front door, the telephone bell tinkled again and the same voice called, "Please hurry, the gypsies are leaving in their automobiles."

The motorcycle officer hit a 60-mile an hour pace all the way to Roscoe and his face was wet with the early morning fog when his smoking motorcycle dashed in among the gypsy autos. The woman was waiting to identify the baby. Officer Gates ordered the head of the gypsy band to bring out all the babies.

Lean babies and fat babies, old babies and young babies, all of them the chestnut hue of their gypsy parents, passed in review before the anxious accuser, and the officer was bewildered by the mass of swaddling clothes. The woman was bewildered, too, and called neighbors to help her identify the child she thought the band had.

"Plenta babies we got. Da mamas glad to giv' you eny what you want. Wat we want wid odder people's kids?" the gypsy leader said.

The woman and all her neighbors failed to identify any kidnapped baby, and Gates disgustedly wiped the morning fog from his brow and told the band to "beat it."

Whose baby the woman thought the gypsies had is still a mystery.

POLECAT AS A PET.

London—"Somebody's always taking the joy out of life," Fred Riddell, naval artificer, told the police magistrates when charged with being drunk and in possession of a pet polecat. "The polecat hit me and then started to feed on Riddell," the cop declared. The prisoner stated he had brought the animal from H. M. S. Renown, for a bit of fuh. The cop strangled the polecat and the magistrate fined Riddell $10.

Car Shortage Is Check to Coal Mining

WILKES BARRE, Pa., Oct. 20 (United Press)—During the first thirty days of operations in the anthracite mines, after a five months suspension, production of hard coal was curtailed by a shortage of labor, drought that threatened the existence of wasteries and a lack of gondola cars.

Operators, however, are striving to overcome the big handicaps, so that production of domestic fuel may soon reach normal proportions and the tonnage will mount to the 2,000,000 mark weekly.

Many mines in the hard coal region, comprising an area of about 480 square miles, have been forced to close down two and three days a week because there has been no cars to haul the "black diamonds."

Box cars have been used extensively for hauling coal westward, and railroads by placing embargoes on "slow freight," are endeavoring to place sufficient cars in mine sidings to overcome the car shortage.

During the suspension many laborers left the anthracite region to seek employment in other sections of the country. When the mines resumed operations, skilled licensed miners began cutting coal, but no laborers were available for loading the product into railroad cars.

Imports from big cities of the United States are now pouring into the mining centers at the rate of 100 a day. They are speedily instructed in the art of welding shovels and operating automatic loaders.

Every coal washery in the entire hard coal region was forced to curtail operations because of a lengthy drought, rains however, have brought streams up and once more washeries are operating full time.

Indications are that normal production of coal will be reached by October 20.

POPULARITY OF SPARR HEIGHTS BRINGS OFFICE

Glendalians to Be Supplied With Local Office for Purchases

The managers of Sparr Heights, the most recent big subdivision to be opened in Glendale, consisting of 1500 acres, and owned by W. S. Sparr and Senator L. E. Francis of Iowa and associates, have decided to open a Glendale city office, where the local business in connection with the tract will be carried on. This branch will be located at 200 East Broadway, corner Maryland, and it will be under the direct charge of D. F. Bowler, as branch maanger, who will be assisted by John L. Bolen, Ernest L. Sparr, H. B. Wishart and Merwin Francis, each of whom will be in charge of a separate division of the work.

So many inquiries have been made by individuals as well as real estate brokers since the opening of the first unit of Sparr Heights, as to whether a central Glendale office would be established, that it has been decided that a Glendale branch is absolutely necessary. From this office real estate brokers, wishing to handle Sparr Heights property will be given every assistance and co-operation. This tract is being disposed of by Francis-Barnum-Walters company, the main office of which is on the tract in Montrose.

From the way property has been selling in this tract since its opening about a month ago, it would seem as though real estate buyers have been waiting for just such an opportunity to purchase homesites. During that short time $400,000 worth of business and residential lots have been disposed of, and the sale is growing in briskness as the days wear away.

Residence lots in this tract are being sold for $750 and up, and business lots are going from $1000 and up, these prices including paved streets, curbing, gutters, cement walks, water, gas, electricity, telephones and every other convenience. In fact, everything that can be desired by the home-owner is being included in the improvements of this tract, so what when the prospective builder goes on this tract he can be sure of having everything necessary.

Sparr Heights is admirably located for home purposes. It is one of the really choice tracts in this section. Part of it is in the city of Glendale and all of it is in the wonderful Verdugo canyon. The tract lies just south of Montrose with the state highway and the Glendale-Montrose railway running through the center of the property. The elevation is high, the view from the tract is unsurpassed, the healthful conditions are ideal. In fact, the tract is a high class residence location in every sense of the word.

REAL FOOTBALL ON SATURDAY'S CARD

By HENRY L. FARRELL
United Press Sports Editor

NEW YORK, Oct. 20.—First real football bangs of the season starts tomorrow with an attractive program.

Features of the schedule are the games between Harvard and Centre college at Cambridge and Georgia Tech and the Naval academy at Annapolis.

* * * * * *

Centre beat Harvard last year and the Colonels will give the Crimson a fight simply because they teach them to fight at Centre. The Colonels, however, haven't the chance to win they had last year.

Georgia Tech probably will have an interesting time with the midshipmen. The southerners are strong for the style of depending on a strong attack for the defense, while the midshipmen are always well schooled on the defense.

* * * * * *

Featured in the middle west will be the game between Ohio State, former champions of the western conference, and Michigan.

In addition to its effects on the conference championship race it will be a big game because it will be the official opener for the new million-dollar Ohio stadium.

* * * * * *

Other interesting games in the conference will be between Iowa and Illinois, Indiana and Wisconsin and Minnesota and Northwestern.

* * * * * *

Pancho Villa, the new American flyweight champion, had a tough time getting any kind of a chance in the ring.

He was unknown and the matchmakers for all the clubs didn't think much of the fighting ability of any yellow man.

Dave Driscoll, matchmaker for the Brooklyn ball club, finally put him on.

"His manager kept bothering the life out of me and I decided finally the best way to get rid of him was to get his boy knocked out," Driscoll said.

"I put him on in a four-round bout and he made a whale of a showing. Then I gave him a six-rounder and he became a real hit. He was good enough for twelve rounds, then he became a card. The next thing he had the American title and as soon as I stage the fight with Jimmy Wilde he'll be the world's champion."

* * * * * *

For several years the International league club owners have been yelping for the breaking up of the Baltimore club, said to be a major league team in a minor league.

Baltimore sort of denied the allegations by going out and losing a series with the New Haven club, winners of the Eastern league, for the minor league championship of the east.

Later the Orioles turned around and won the "little world's series" from the St. Paul club, champions of the American association.

Which gives New Haven some sort of a title.

JUDGE TOLAND IS RELYING ON HIS RECORD

Judge Thomas O. Toland, judge of the superior court of Los Angeles county, is a candidate to succeed himself. He has already received the promise of support from many thousands of his friends in this county who are confident that he will be elected in November.

Courteous to those who have cause to appear before him in his court, sound and experienced as a judge and with a thorough knowledge of people and human events Judge Toland is making the race solely on his career for the past 40 years. Though still in the prime of life he has a fund of valuable information as a judge and a lawyer that peculiarly equips him for the position he seeks.

"There are many things necessary to qualify a man for judge of the superior court," said Judge Toland. "First he must be experienced, then he must have a thorough knowledge of the law and must understand how to administer the law. As a judge and lawyer I feel that I can qualify under these rules and therefore I am asking the people to return me to the bench and I feel that they will do so because of the support that has already been presided."

Calvert Wilson, who has been appointed secretary, is satisfied that Judge Toland will be one of the leaders on the ballot when the votes are tabulated after election.

DID YOU EVER STOP TO THINK—

THAT the wise buyer always reads the advertisements.

THAT it is the way to save money.

THAT everybody should know of your city's greatness and business advantages.

THAT your city is an acknowledged leader in your section for many lines of business.

THAT it is a good plan to think before you speak.

THAT some men often speak before they think.

THAT it often causes much grief.

THAT if you think more about your city and study its advantages, you can be a better city booster.

THAT it is also well to look before you leap.

THAT there are two sides of human nature, optimistic and pessimistic. THERE SHOULD BE ONLY ONE SIDE IN YOUR CITY.

THAT some citizens would rather knock their own home city than to boost it. PUBLIC OPINION should make this class of citizens hard to find.

THAT cities get reputations the same as men.

THAT your city should have the best of reputations.

THAT optimism and common sense should be mingled in good proportion.

THAT if you do this, you will find it easier to think, to speak and to act in a way that will help to make your city a better and bigger city.

THAT pernicious propaganda in business circles should cease. Now is the time for the trouble monger, the fellow who has done his best to keep things down, to shut up and do some thinking.

The Glendale Daily Press has arranged to present a series of articles which begin today giving information concerning the Boy Scouts of America and of the Verdugo Hills District Council, which includes the cities and communities of Glendale, Burbank, Roscoe, Sunland, Tujunga, La Crescenta, Montrose, Casa Verdugo and Eagle Rock. Look for these articles if you want to know the facts.

By HAROLD F. BENNER,
Scout Executive, Verdugo Hills District Council, B. S. A.

The Boy Scout Movement does not aim to assume the responsibility of either home or school for the boy, but to supplement and intensify the training of both, in character formation.

The relation of the scout movement to the school is one of the closest co-operation and mutual helpfulness. One high school principal has described scouting by saying: "It has done what no scheme has ever done before—made the boy want to learn."

Teachers, therefore, like parents, have an easier time with scouts. There is no trouble about the boy learning when he "wants to." All sorts of methods have been tried to make the boy want to learn. The Boy Scout method has come out of this same human laboratory and it is an experiment that has proven successful in twelve years of acid test. This is the trail of the scout in the school.

THE TRAIL OF THE SCOUT IN THE CHURCH.

As we have shown in the previous article, the scout movement is absolutely non-secterian both in principle and in practice. But its program provides recreational activities which are easily adapted as an adjunct to the work of the church and the Sunday school. It serves an important need in keeping the boy in contact with the religious activities of his own church. He does not get the desire to graduate so evident in growing boys.

Scouting does not specifically teach religion, but it does both directly and indirectly inculcate those ideals which will help boys to put in practice every day the religious faith which may be theirs.

By his oath and his training under scout law every boy who enters the movement dedicates himself to right living, to the service of God, and to the brotherhood of man.

THE COUNTER ATTACK.

When a boy's mind is occupied with clean, appealing activities the doors are closed to temptations which knock with desire to enter. The hardest thing for parents and teachers to combat is that insidious propaganda of evil which the unoccupied boy picks up. They can recognize it in his countenance, in his growing reticence and unresponsiveness. But it is beyond reach. He will not talk it out.

The Boy Scout Movement has the preventive method and it has the counter attack for such conditions.

No greater thing for the Verdugo Hills District of tomorrow could be done than to enlist all of the sixteen hundred eligible boys of this district in the Boy Scouts of America. It is a name they will proudly assume if the people of America will provide the means and ways. It is Glendale's, Burbank's, Eagle Rock's and the surrounding territory's splendid opportunity to do this as we will continue to tell you.

VERDUGO HILLS DISTRICT'S OPPORTUNITY.

There is a big national and local campaign soon to be launched in the Boy Scout Movement. The worth of it has already been proven. That is attested by local results, and in another article we shall present testimony on this point from many others of different places.

Glendale and the Verdugo Hills District in general has the opportunity in this campaign to become the first city and district in the land of its size. It will demand some local response and some work. But it can be done.

That would mean that the cities of the Verdugo Hills District are doing more for their boys than any other communities of their size. What do you think that would mean to the parents of live, husky boys who might be looking for a home in another community. We will tell more about this opportunity later.

THE DAILY PRESS has frequently endorsed the Boy Scout Movement, congratulated the leaders of it in the Verdugo Hills District on the remarkable development of the work here in the last year, and called the attention of our citizens to the local and national importance of it. THE DAILY PRESS desires to see Glendale and the Verdugo Hills District the first city and territory of its size in America in the work of the Boy Scouts. If any citizen has any question to ask it will be answered by the local scout executive who is preparing these articles. Call for Harold Benner at Glendale 2205-R or address the district office, 108 N. Brand Boulevard, Glendale, California.

Mermaids Learning Swimming is Sight on Boats to South America

Mermaids Aboard S. S. Pan-America

New York Learning to swim at sea without entering the ocean is the unusual experience of many American girls who are journeying to South America this season. The swimming at sea takes place aboard the speedy Munson Liners operating under the Stars and Stripes. All of the vessels of this line plying between New York and South American ports are equipped with open air swimming tanks, which provide endless hours of pleasure for the traveler.

Competent swimming instructors are on board the vessels, to guide the efforts of those who know nothing of equatic sports. A humorist who recently made the trip to Rio de Janeiro on the S.S. Southern Cross after watching the efforts of a bevy of shapely and pretty girls who were performing in the tank, remarked: "This is indeed a sight—watching mermaids learning to swim."

The swimming tanks aboard the Munson liners are used in the Neptune ceremony which is enacted when the vessels cross the equator. On the trip to South America, a traveler spends practically every minute of his daylight hours in deck sports. The swimming tank always has its full quota. Besides the swimming, golf is played on the decks. This is accomplished through the use of a device which indicates the distance accomplished by a drive on the ball, which is attached by a string, to a recording instrument.

Tennis courts are also to be found on the upper deck of the vessels, and keep the younger element of the passenger personnel occupied with healthful exercise. It is the swimming tank, however, which seems to have an appeal for the older travelers who do not venture for a plunge, but enjoy the sports almost as much as those participating in them. There is a big open room on one of the upper decks which is practically a balcony overlooking the swimming tank, and here, in comfortable wicker chairs, the spectators sit by the hour watching the mermaids disport themselves in the tank below.

The indications are that more Americans will visit Rio this year than ever before in the history of travel. The Brazilian Centennial Exposition is the big magnet which is drawing them to the land under the blazing Southern Cross. Charles E. Hughes, Secretary of State, recently returned after participating in the opening ceremonies.

Still Have Goosestep in the German Army

Berlin.—The goosestep—a relic of kaiserly days—remains in the German army. Soldiers of the Republican army have not discarded the old stiff-legged walk. In the recent celebration of the third anniversary of the adoption of the new German constitution, a troop of German soldiers acted as guard of honor to President Ebert. They fell into the queer step of the old regime. The troops wore the uniforms and helmets of the old days. The goosestep marching provoked mirth among the crowds along the streets.

ADULTS DANCING CLASSES TO OPEN

Owing to the present demand for the best in modern ballroom dancing, Pearl Keller Brattain, director of the Pearl Keller School of Dancing and Dramatic Art, will open classes for adults, high school students and a special class for children, beginning this week. Mrs. Brattain will be assisted in her work by Mary Grace Egley, who comes highly recommended, and is well known as an instructor of the latest and best in ball room work. Classes are now forming and all who are interested should communicate with Clara Brown, secretary of the school.

Glad to see you, Little Man,

But I'll let them wait a while.

I need just the change you bring.
So come on in and sit down,
I would go a-wandering.

I would go a-wandering
Back to boyland now with you,
Where the soul is at the Spring,
Where the only skies are blue.
Hat and trousers and a string
All that I may need of clothes,
On a highway Summering
With some freckles on my nose.

There's a dog to bark and cry,
There's a blister on my heel,
But my spirit's soaring high,
And I limp along nor feel
Any hurt that's worth a pang,
Here's a brook with waters cool,
Where that feathered minstrel sang,
I may bathe it in the pool.

Tell me secrets, Little Man,
Of the Summer and its joy,
I'll remember all I can
That was mine when as a boy
I was scarred and cut and brown,
Cap and trousers all my clothes,
Whistling the long highway down
With the freckles on my nose.

Glad to see you, Little Man,
Mighty sorry you can't stay,
Come and see me when you can,
Glad to have you any day.
For you brought me in someway
Spicy odors of the Spring
And the Summer one far day,
When I went a-wandering!

LEARNING AND WISDOM

By H. ADDINGTON BRUCE

Author of "The Riddle of Personality," "Self-Development," Etc.

(Copyright, 1922, by The Associated Newspapers)

To identify learning with wisdom is a mistake all too commonly made. Again and again we hear it said of persons who by wide reading and assiduous study have made themselves unusually learned: "How much he knows! How wise he is!"

But close acquaintance would frequently reveal that in spite of all his knowledge the learned one is in many respects anything but wise. He may not even be wise enough to take proper care of his health.

Over-eager to increase or to apply his knowledge, he perhaps denies himself sufficient sleep, eats irregularly, gives himself no recreation. And, though he may long do this with impunity, the time is sure to come when his folly will be painfully forced upon his consciousness.

Or he may be strangely foolish as regards making provision for the care of himself and his family in the event of loss in earning power as a result of accident, ill health, or advancing years.

Some exceedingly learned persons never seem to appreciate the value of money. Others, appreciating this, show a strange credulity in the matter of money's safekeeping. It is proverbial that the very learned no less than the very ignorant are an easy prey for swindlers and charlatans seeking to enrich themselves by deceit and fraud.

The learned, too, may be most unwise in their personal relations with other people. Not infrequently they are socially so unadaptable—through irritability, absent-mindedness and so forth—that others cannot endure them.

This may mean loss of occupation, with resultant poverty. It is sure to mean loneliness and unhappiness, with perhaps a growing bitterness of heart. When learned people discourse crabbedly and pessimistically of the world in which they live you may be tolerably confident that their own social unadaptability is at least partly responsible for their mental attitude.

From all of which it follows that while it always is most desirable for a man—or a woman—to gain as much knowledge as possible through reading and study, it never should be forgotten that the art of living involves much more than the accumulation of learning. To appreciate this is of the first importance for every one of us—and especially for young people before whom stretch the years of maturity with their manifold possibilities for success or failure.

The most useful of all lessons, it has been declared, are to be learned not in the schoolroom but outside of it. Most certainly it is true that if one really would become wise it is necessary to keep one's eyes and ears, one's heart and mind wide open to the developing and informing influence of intercourse with one's fellows.

And always there should be tireless cultivation of the sentiments as of the reason. The truly wise are humane, generous, sympathetic and loving. Freely they give of themselves, willingly they labor, not for their own aggrandizement, but that others—relatives, friends, the community, the nation—may be the gainers.

Without such attributes the most learned are fated to come to grief.

With them, life may be made notably successful even in the absence of learning. When both learning and true wisdom are united, then indeed we have a combination that is irresistible.

OBSERVATIONS

BY A GLENDALE OLD TIMER

And Pacific avenue is to be improved again. This is the third time in about six years. When I first saw Pacific avenue it reminded me of a country road. It was a dusty highway, bordered at places with beautiful large pepper trees and very few houses were to be seen. The first "improvement" consisted simply in covering the leveled surface with oil, which was then coated over with gravel. I unfortunately owned 125 feet of frontage on the street then, and it cost me $109 for an improvement (?) that lasted less than a year and left the roadway in much worse condition that before, as the oiled surface broke through in numberless places, and the surface was a series of little islands of caked oil surrounded by dust. The condition was so bad that in a little more than a year the city went over the work with gravel and oil, making a much better roadway, one that has lasted for a few years. Now a real macadam road is being put in. When the stretch is opened from Broadway to California and properly surfaced, a fine motor highway from San Fernando road to Kenneth road will be provided.

When I was a schoolboy I spent five years in the little town of Odin, Marion county, Illinois, which is six miles west of Salem, the birthplace of Wm. Jennings Bryan. The little town is at the crossing of the Illinois Central, the oldest railroad in Illinois, and the B. & O. Southwestern, then the Ohio & Mississippi, or O. & M., as it was called. This latter road was built on the broad gauge plan, the rails seven feet apart. As many of the older roads and all of the new ones were standard gauge (5 feet, 4 inches between rails, I think), the O. & M. had to transfer all freight, even car lots, that came to or went from its line. So it was finally decided to change to standard gauge. First trucks of the standard width were made ready, so they could be placed under the cars at a moment's notice, then one Saturday midnight, section hands and trackmen who had been placed at the proper intervals all along the 240 miles of track, began loosening the rails on one side and moving them over to conform to standard gauge. By Sunday midnight all was completed and trains began moving again.

Here is another strange happening that was chronicled in my weekly paper in Illinois and which I promised last week to tell you about. One morning Wm. Bostwick, a well-to-do farmer living near West Union, Illinois, 12 miles south of my home city, hitched up his team to the farm wagon and drove over to Shelburn, Ind., to look after some business. Reaching the town, he rattled along in his wagon, thinking of nothing but the approaching business interview. Approaching the E. & T. H. railway track, he drove on the crossing without giving a thought to trains. The northbound flyer was approaching at high speed, for it did not stop in Shelburn, and when Bostwick's wagon was squarely on the track the engine struck it, reducing it to kindling wood and throwing the driver's body high in the air. On the depot platform was a traveling man, walking back and forth while impatiently awaiting the arrival of a south-bound train, due in a few moments. Bostwick's body, thrown 50 feet or more by the impact of the engine, struck the traveling man and knocked him down, breaking his leg. Bostwick had been instantly killed. The traveling man sued the railroad company for heavy damages, but lost the case. He had claimed that the train was traveling at excessive speed and that this was the cause of the striking of Bostwick's wagon. But the evidence showed that the usual speed through the town was observed and that Bostwick came to his death through his own negligence, while the plaintiff just happened to be in the wrong place when the flying body landed.

One of the builders of Glendale who had an unbounded faith in its future was the late Samuel L. Borthick. More than 20 years ago he came here from Missouri and bought a tract of land between the present Windsor road and Park avenue, bounded on east and west by Glendale avenue and Brand boulevard; also a small tract west of Brand along Park avenue, where he made his home in an old-fashioned two-story house that some years ago fell before the march of progress. The 14-acre tract he bought for $6,000 is now almost covered with beautiful homes and represents a value of many hundreds of thousands of dollars. In 1914, Mr. Borthick, speaking to a lady who had bought a home of him, declared: "In 10 years Glendale will have a population of 50,000 people. I feel it, I know it." Remember, this was the year when the world war opened, a period of business depression, and Glendale had not awakened from its sleep of a decade. Samuel Borthick did not live to see his prediction fulfilled, as it undoubtedly will be, but he was one of the pioneers who contributed so largely to making the fruition of his hopes possible.

One of the most dastardly crimes of recent years was the attempt of Armour Phillips, husband of the hammer murderess, to besmirch the fair name of the murdered woman by a revolting tale of his alleged intimacy with her—a tale so crude and repulsive that it bore upon its face the utter impossibility of there being a word of truth in it. That any self-respecting newspaper could lend its columns to the publication of this filthy mess is greatly to be deplored. It is said the aged father of the slandered victim of a callous wife and her cowardly, filthy-minded husband, is gunning for the traducer of his dead daughter, and that the craven wretch has fled. He ought to be banished to a desert island for life.

Some people may be greatly interested in Einstein's theory of relativity or who killed cock robin, but as for me I want to call you old timers' attention to the evolution of the cantaloupe. When I was a boy the name muskmelon was given only to a large melon, weighing from 3 to 12 or 15 pounds and shaped like a Hubbard squash, only more elongated; the round, netted melons we called nutmegs; the canteloupe was a small, round melon, yellow when ripe, with very dark yellow curving lines over its surface. Now the term canteloupe or cantelope is applied to all melons of the type except the casaba, and there are many varieties, new ones apber 12, 1492, he landed on San Salvador island, many miles from the coast he came to seek. In 1498 Columbus landed on the shore of South America, but history records no visit of his to North America. But to him is due eternal honor for pointing the way to the discovery of this wonderful land, and it is but right that it should be called Columbia in song and story, even though the official name, America, was given in honor of Amerigo Vespucci, who visited the continent in 1499 and made the first crude map of the new country. It was the persistence of Columbus in sticking to his theory that there was a land to the westward of Spain, through long years of disappointment and hopes deferred and through hunger and cold at times, that led to the discovery—and in this great country, named for an Italian map maker, tens of thousands of school children and their parents know the name of Christopher Columbus, the great Genoese, and revere it, while a very small per cent of them ever heard of Amerigo Vespucci.

"OPEN HOUSE"

To Which You Are Invited

VISITORS WEEK, OCTOBER 24 to 27

"OPEN HOUSE" in a laundry! Unusual, to be sure—yet natural enough when its purpose is understood.

Your laundry renders an intimate, personal sort of service. To it, more than to almost any other institution, is entrusted the conservation and protection of the family health.

You should know how well this duty is performed. You should see a modern laundry in operation—and to make this easy is the purpose of Visitors' Week.

During four days, October 24 to 27, special preparations will be made in modern laundries everywhere for your reception, and the reception of the public.

You will see how clothes are conserved, and a degree of cleanliness and sanitation achieved that is comparable with that in your own home.

You will see methods for the expeditious, thorough and safe washing of clothes that will give you a new conception of this great industry, and new faith in its competence.

You will meet the men and women who through their ideals of conscientious service have lifted the laundry industry in AMERICA to a level attained nowhere else in the world.

You will learn why it is no longer necessary for the family washing to be kept at home, and why washday already has disapeared from the calendars of more than 2,000,000 women.

Visit the GLENDALE LAUNDRY during Visitors' Week so that you may know the modern laundry as it really is. Thousands of persons accepted this invitation last year.
